BURGLARY ARREST

A two-day investigation by Mississippi and Louisiana authorities has resulted in the arrest of a burglary suspect who, with his companion, is accused of robbing several homes while the owners were away.

Curtis Lee Carroll, 19, and Ira Rudolph, 21, both of Slidell, La., are charged with burglarizing two Hancock County residences, two homes in Pearl River County and several more homes in St. Tammany Parish, Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Nathan Hoda said.

Carroll was arrested on Tuesday. Rudolph, pulled in Covington, La., is expected to be sent back to Mississippi to face charges after he posts bond with St. Tammany authorities.

Hoda added that Justice Court Judge Lee Klein was scheduled to set bond for Carroll late Wednesday afternoon.

Hoda said the investigation by Hancock, Pearl River and St. Tammany authorities lasted about two days and was prompted by a tip.

"We got a tag number of a van they were using," Hoda explained.

He said the two allegedly took the van to residences, knocked, then broke in if the resident was not at home.

In all of the homes involved, mostly jewelry was taken but missing items also included videocassette recorders, television sets and cordless telephones.

The stolen items were allegedly taken to a New Orleans location for sale.

SILVER CREEK BURGLARY

An Oct. 11 house burglary in Silver Creek, La., has been solved.

According to Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Glen Strong, two adults have been arrested. The incident also involved three male juveniles, ages 15, 16 and 17.

Clarence C. Blake, 18, of Route One, Box 7166, Bay St. Louis, was arrested and charged with burglary. Steve Willie Berry, 21, of Route Three, Box 749, Bay St. Louis, was arrested Tuesday and charged with accessory after the fact to burglary and receiving stolen property, the investigator said.

According to Strong, Blake, the 15-year-old and the 17-year-old allegedly burglarized the house, then Blake and the third juvenile allegedly drove to a home in Bay St. Louis. The items stolen included a microwave oven, an air conditioning unit, an ax, a chain saw and a Confederate flag. All except the air conditioning unit have been recovered.

Strong said the juveniles have been released to their parents and the two adults have been jailed on $2,000 bond each.

Berry was arrested at his residence and Blake was arrested following questioning at the sheriff's department.

Assisting Strong were Deputy George Barleson and Investigator Nathan Hoda.

WOMAN MURDERED

Pass Christian authorities are investigating the death of a 53-year-old Pass Christian woman found dead in her home Saturday.

Joan Easterling, 251 Woodman Ave., was found by a neighbor who checked on her because she had not been seen the previous day. Easterling was a widow and was employed at the Pass Christian Industries shirt factory.

Harrison County Coroner Ed Little said the woman had died from brain damage caused by eight blows to the top of her head and two to her forehead, but he would not say what had been used to bludgeon her until the investigation progresses.

Results from an autopsy conducted Saturday indicated that Easterling had died the day before she was found.

SUSPECTS RELEASED

Two suspects have been released as the investigation into the death of a Waveland man continues.

Slidell, La., authorities released 45-year-old Richard Keeton and 37-year-old Timothy Ashcraft, a pair of transients, Monday after deciding that they were not involved in the death of William H. Beebe.

However, a third suspect, Vinnie McGuire, 36, remains in custody.

Beebe, 29, taught at Delgado Community College in Slidell and University of Southern Mississippi's Gulf Park campus in Long Beach. He was found dead in a Slidell motel room Oct. 14, his wallet and car missing.

He had been beaten and strangled.

The three transients were arrested two days later in Malibu, Calif., because they were traveling in the murdered man's car.

Assistant District Attorney Harry E. Pastuszak Jr. has stated that McGuire's case was scheduled to be presented Wednesday to a St. Tammany Parish Grand Jury.

Pastuszak and Slidell Police Chief Max C. Rodriguez stated to the Associated Press that Keeton and Ashcraft were not in the Slidell area at the time of the murder, according to evidence currently available, and were probably picked up by McGuire on the way to California. The two were given a ride to Interstate 10 where they continued the trip making they have both been doing for years.

The two told authorities that McGuire picked them up separately near San Antonio, Texas.

Rodriguez said the investigation will continue regarding the possible involvement of McGuire, who may be using an alias.

Record voter turnout expected for Nov. 8

BY DENA BISNETTE

A record voter turnout is expected for the Nov. 8 election.

Hancock County Election Commission Chairman Charles Gottschalk has reported to the board of supervisors that voter registration for this election has reached a new record high in the county.

Deputy Circuit Clerk Kendra Flowers said computer records now show a total registration of 21,872.

According to Gottschalk, a lower turn-out is expected nationally on Nov. 8 than four years ago when the last presidential election was conducted. Here in Hancock County, election officials have much different expectations.

"We're expecting our largest turn-out ever, because we have not only the presidential election, but a local interest in the two supervisor races," he said.

The Beat Three race has 12 candidates and the Beat Four race has nine.

According to Gottschalk, the two special elections, prompted by Operation Pretense convictions, are stirring even more interest for two reasons.

"The scope of the job has changed entirely since the last election for supervisor some three years ago," he said, referring to the changes caused by the unit system, which has transformed the emphasis of the office from road repair to administration.

The second reason is who is running. For the first time, a supervisor race will include black candidates, with Harry Favre and James Drummond running in Beat Four.

"We have had black candidates running for other jobs, but never for supervisor," Gottschalk explained, saying there has been no particular reason blacks did not run before; there just hasn't been one in a supervisor race.

"You also have some people running who wouldn't have run before. You have five women and we never had any women running when being supervisor meant getting out and checking roads, ditches and culverts. Now you make business decisions," he said.

"It's a pretty nice position when you can make $26,000 a year and keep your own job."

The women running include Margaret Ladner, Lisa LeBon Coward, Hilda Bourg and Florence Gorman in Beat Three and Billie Fay Lyons in Beat Four.

There are also some local races that are regularly scheduled elections to generate interest. They include the Beat Three and Four school board seats and all five county election commission posts.

An indication of the strong interest in the election is the number of absentee ballots requested from Circuit Clerk Pam Metzler's office, where Gottschalk had to provide Flowers with an additional box for ballots when the first one filled.

Metzler said about 100 have been voted in the office so far and about 300 more have been requested to be mailed to the absentee voters.

The absentee ballot deadline is Nov. 5 at noon and to accommodate the larger than expected number of voters, the office will remain open from 8 a.m. until noon on two Saturdays, Oct. 29 and Nov. 5.

A few extra pollworkers will be needed because Gottschalk said that two sign-in books will be provided at the larger precincts.

"We'll have to divide them into A-L and M-Z for the convenience of the voters. That way, we can process more people faster," he explained.

The precincts where that will be done will probably be all those with more than 1,000 registered voters.

Those include Lakeshore with 1,346 registered voters, Waveland East, 1,750; Pearlington, 1,247; Waveland West, 1,120; North Bay West, 1,453; Diamondhead, 1,636; City Hall, 1,055; South Bay, 1,851 and Courthouse, 1,024.

Metzler said the interest in the election is evidenced by the number of voters who registered during the last week allowed for this election—374. She said 433 registered on the last day, with about 500 registering between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m.

Students kept off buses, parents express concern

BY D.C. HARVILL

Due to state law Children in the Bay St. Louis School District living within one-mile of the school they attend are no longer allowed to ride school buses and their parents don't like the idea.

Jana Sheppard, whose 10-year-old daughter attends North Bay Elementary School, said the first notification she got from the school concerning the policy came last Thursday morning when her daughter was prevented by a bus driver from boarding the bus she had been riding for four years.

"The bus driver got off the bus and stopped the children from getting on. He said he would lose his job if he let our children get on. They didn't even send home a note letting us know our kids couldn't ride," Sheppard said.

W.J. Cameron, transportation coordinator for the Bay-Waveland School District, said, a state regulation is responsible for the district's action. He stated that the rule was not enforced before because the district did not have a full-time transportation coordinator to stay abreast of regulations.

Cameron, formerly principal of Bay Junior High, assumed the transportation position at the beginning of the current school year.

"The state doesn't fund any transportation that is less than a mile. That is the law. The state won't pick up the tab for those students," Cameron said.

Rhonda Swilley of Julia Street, a mother of an 8-year-old who attends North Bay, said, "It's ridiculous, because at some places children from one house can ride and the children from the next house down can't."

The parents are concerned that their children's safety is being endangered because there are no sidewalks on Dunbar Avenue, the street on which the school is located, and it is

Space center honors Glazier with dedication

BY DENA BISNETTE

Under special legislation, the conference suites in the Mississippi Technology Transfer Center building at Stennis Space Center have been dedicated to Herman Cowan Glazier Jr., who has served as aide to seven governors.

In a ceremony on Glazier's 70th birthday, he was honored by being named honorary state treasurer in recognition of his 23 years of service to the governor's office.

He was also presented with a portrait showing him with the seven governors he has served as executive assistant, beginning with Ross Barnett and ending with William F. Allmon, as depicted by NASA artist Charles Swan. A framed photo

 Hattie Champine, 100, of Waveland, died Friday, Oct. 21, 1988, in Waveland.

She was a homemaker, a member of Little Zion Baptist Church in Waveland and a Sunday school teacher.

She is survived by a son, Johnny Champine of Waveland; and a host of nieces and nephews.

Visitation and a funeral service were held Wednesday night. The body will be dismissed from Little Zion Baptist Church today at 11 p.m. followed by burial in Waveland Cemetery.

Arrangements are under the direction of Baylous Funeral Home.

JOAN EASTERLING
 Mrs. Joan Hulene Easterling, 53, Pass Christian, died Saturday, Oct. 22, 1988, in Pass Christian.

Mrs. Easterling was a native of Bogalusa, La. and had been employed with Pass Christian Industries. She was a member of Pass Christian First Baptist Church.

Survivors include a son, Gary Easterling of Carriere; five daughters, Mrs. Kathy Simmons and Mrs. Julie Roxanne Gerald, both of Picayune, Mrs. Vickie Bennett of Carriere, Mrs. Sherry Williamson of McNeill and Mrs. Peggy Jean Necaise of Necaise Crossing; her mother, Mrs. Eva Dunn of Lizana; a brother, Jimmy Dunn of Lizana; three sisters, Mrs. Judy Stewart and Mrs. Delores Gibson, both of Gulfport, and Mrs. Cora Davis of McHenry; and 10 grandchildren.

Visitation was Tuesday at Riemann Memorial Funeral Home in Gulfport.

Services were conducted Wednesday at Pass Christian First Baptist Church, with graveside services following at McNeill Cemetery in Pearl River County.

ELWOOD ERICKSON
 Elwood Erickson, 64, of Diamondhead died Tuesday, Oct. 25, 1988.

than for those used to bury household garbage, which gives off toxic substances as it decays and can contaminate groundwater if a landfill is improperly sealed.

"We're off to a good start. I talked with Mr. Compton and he is very confident that this particular site can be permitted in a much shorter time than originally estimated," Johnson said, explaining that State Bureau of Pollution Control officials had indicated that obtaining a permit for a garbage landfill can take anywhere from 18 months to two years on the average.

"His feelings are that we are sort of ahead of the game."

The landfill has been filling rapidly over the past year and the supervisors have been looking for a new site since NASA officials told them the county can not use any of the additional acreage on the site because borings indicated the area could not meet permitting standards.

Card of Thanks

The family of Joseph Calvin Schultz Sr. would like to thank Mobile Medic, the Waveland Police Department, Dr. Bertin Chevas, Dr. James Crittenden, the staff of Hancock Medical Center, Rev. O'Brien, Rev. Van Carpenter and all those who prepared and brought food, and for the many prayers and expressions of love during the recent illness and death of our husband, father, son and brother. May God's richest blessings be with each of you.

Wife: Suzanne S. Schultz
 Children: Elizabeth and Joey

Arrangements are incomplete at Edmond Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis.

BUSTER JOHNSON
 Buster Johnson, 61, Pass Christian, died Thursday, Oct. 20, 1988, in Gulfport.

Survivors include five sons, Leroy Johnson, Tommy Johnson, Eddie Johnson, Cornelious Johnson, all of Cross, S.C. and Ernest Johnson, of Pass Christian; three daughters, Mrs. Victoria Jones and Ms. Bertha Johnson, both of Cross, and Ms. Sandra Johnson of Pass Christian; 14 grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Services were conducted Tuesday at Zion United Methodist Church followed by burial in Concenna Cemetery in Cross, S.C.

Holoman-Scott Funeral Home in Moncks Corner, S.C. was in charge of arrangements.

J. T. Hall Funeral Home in Gulfport was in charge of local arrangements.

ORVAL 'BILL' KINCAID
 Orval "Bill" Kincaid, 65, Pass Christian, died Sunday, Oct. 23, 1988, in Biloxi.

Mr. Kincaid, a native of Chicago, had been a railroad conductor for the Indiana Harbor Belt. He had served in the Army during World War II and was a Baptist.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Myra Kincaid of Pass Christian; a son, Michael Kincaid of Pass Christian; a daughter, Mrs. Joy McAllister of Markham, Ill.; a sister, Mrs. Yvonne Stephens of Gary, Ind.; and three grandchildren.

Visitation was Tuesday at Riemann Memorial Funeral Home in Gulfport.

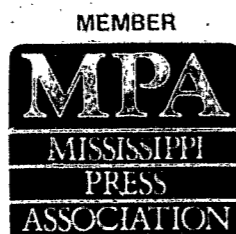

Graveside services were conducted Wednesday at 3 p.m. at Hickory Creek Baptist Church Cemetery.

WAYNE WADINGTON
 Dr. Wayne R. Wadington, 69, of Diamondhead died Tuesday, Oct. 25, in Biloxi.

He was a veteran of World War Two, serving in the army air corp. A native of Fort Wayne, Indiana, he was retired from NASA as a consultant for the space shuttle program. An aeronautical engineer, he worked in California for many years in leading private aircraft industries and designed several planes after World War Two.

The landfill was originally permitted more than 10 years ago, Johnson has said. Efforts to slow the filling of the facility have included discontinuing acceptance of anything except household garbage, with trash being accepted at the Standard site but no tires being accepted at any county facility.

The board meets again Monday at the courthouse, beginning at 9 a.m.

His name is in the Aviation Hall of Fame.

He is survived by his wife, Gertrude Wadington of Diamondhead; three sons, Wayne Wadington and Richard Wadington, both of Huntington Park, New York, and Stephen Wadington of Norwalk, Calif.; one brother, Richard Wadington of Atwater, Calif.; two sisters, Mrs. Ralph Bradshaw of Fort Wayne, and Mrs. Esther Moehle of Coldwater, Mich.; and two grandchildren.

Visitation 6-9 p.m. today at Riemann Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis. A service will be 2 p.m. Friday in the funeral home chapel. Interment is to follow in the Biloxi Nation Cemetery.

The family prefers donations to be made to a favorite charity.

BERNADETTE MARINO
 Bernadette Marino, 79, of 1319 Perkins St., Waveland, died Tuesday, Oct. 25, 1988, in Jennings, La.

Mrs. Marino had lived in Waveland since 1983 and was a Catholic.

She was preceded in death by two husbands, Sylvester McClelland and Anthony Marino, and two children, James McClelland and Mary Louise Dantoni.

Survivors include her son, Henry McClelland of BaySide Park, her daughter, Viola Perkins of Waveland; five other children and numerous grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Arrangements are incomplete at Lamanna-Pana-Fallo Funeral Home in Chalmette, La., with the wake being scheduled for tonight and services being set for Friday.

Burial is scheduled in Violet Cemetery in St. Bernard Parish.

heavily trafficked.

To illustrate the danger involved they also refer to a 1974 kidnapping and murder in which 15-year-old Mary Ann Favre disappeared along Dunbar after accompanying her younger sister to North Bay. Her body was found months later in Harrison County.

Cameron recommends that the parents pressure the legislature to have the law changed. Steve Williams, the State Department of Education's branch director of pupil transportation, said, just because the state won't pay for the transportation of those students doesn't mean the school district can't provide them with transportation.

"On a space available basis they can choose to transport the students at their own expense," Williams said.

The expense involved in bus-ing students is fairly high, according to Williams.

"It cost an average of $1.18 per mile for gas and maintenance. With the capital outlay involve in purchasing the bus it is more like $1.30," he said.

"If the school district chooses to transport those students, we will stand behind them; if they don't we will stand behind them," he said.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Franckiewicz said, the city has done a survey to determine a sidewalk right-of-way for Dunbar, but does not have the funding for the project.

New extension granted for landfill

BY DENA BISNETTE
Hancock County has received yet another extension on use of the county landfill at Catahoula, while efforts continue toward obtaining permits for a new landfill site.

County Maintenance Superintendent Bill Johnson said he received a call from the U.S.

Army Corps of Engineers Mobile District office Monday afternoon, informing him that the new deadline is Dec. 31. The most recent extension had set Monday, Oct. 31, as the deadline.

A letter making the new deadline official is expected within the next week, Johnson said. He stated Tuesday that he had already informed some members of the board of supervisors by telephone and was still attempting to reach the others.

According to Johnson, Compton Engineering of Pascagoula, the consulting firm hired earlier this month to handle the geotechnical and design work needed for a permit application on a new landfill site, is already making progress on finding a new site.

Several possible sites had been identified through soil borings arranged by the Mississippi Bureau of Geology, and Johnson said his conversations with Compton indicated that the most promising ones located off C.C. Road in the Standard Community north of Hancock North Central School.

Unlike the present landfill, which is actually owned by NASA and is leased to the county, the Standard site is on 16th section land already being used as a dump site for such flammable organic debris like branches, leaves and stumps and other items like old appliances.

State and federal regulatory agencies have less stringent requirements for such landfill. Continued on page A-2

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The March of Dimes WalkAmerica held last Saturday was a big success.

In case some of you are wondering, Sheriff Ronald Peterson, the chairman did make the distance and was among those in the first groups to finish.

Chuck Ramsey of Bay Tech as well as Bob Occhi of Coast Electric were also among the first groups to finish.

I managed to walk a good portion of the Walk myself and really enjoyed the outing.

There were toddlers who made the trip in wagons and strollers and I know of one six year-old who walked the distance with her mother and grandparents.

The WalkAmerica turned out to be a family affair and we are happy about the amount of funds collected for the March of Dimes.

I would like to thank each and everyone of you for your support, including the many who made pledges.

Saturday and Sunday are planned to be big days at Stennis International Airport with a big Air Show.

The event sponsored by the Experimental Aircraft Association Chapter 479, (EAA) is scheduled to be the largest ever to be held at the local airport.

The gates open at 9 a.m. with airshows scheduled both days.

Free tickets have been provided to all school children, Michael Smith, EAA official reports. Admission is a $3 donation for adults.

Smith said there will be hot air balloons, sky divers, helicopter rides and rides in airplanes and balloons.

Many military aircraft are expected to be on display and will perform during the two-day air show.

We hope to see you at the Air Show on Saturday and Sunday.

High school football will be at full force on Friday night for area schools.

The high flying Hawks of Hancock North Central will visit the Tigers of Bay High in Bay St. Louis.

The state rated Hawks are undefeated this season and have already earned a spot in the play-offs. The Tigers will be out to try to spoil a perfect Hawk season.

The game should be a good contest and really needs good fan support for the Tigers as we have a feeling Hawks supporters will be out in full force.

The Pirates of Pass Christian will host the Rosck-A-Chaws of St. Stanislaus in Pass Christian Friday.

Both teams are hungry for a victory, especially the Rocks as they have been in some very close contests this season.

The Rock-A-Chaws and Pirates have young squads this year and the game could go to the team wanting to win the most.

Remember, the regular high school football season is closing fast, so we hope to see you in the stands on Friday night. All games start at 7:30 p.m.

Legionaire Floyd J. Breaux Sr. was enrolled in the Gold Brigade of the American Legion this year, being only one of six to do so in the state of Mississippi.

Breaux was recognized by the American Legion for recruiting 56 new members to the American Legion last year.

Breaux is a member of the Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray American Legion Post No. 77 of Waveland and serves as the post's adjutant. Congratulations to Breaux on his award.

Costs of county unit estimates found flawed

An independent group of certified public accountants have released information that should prove beneficial to the taxpayers of Mississippi.

A group of three CPAs, led by Paul Breazeale of Breazeale, Saunders & O'Neil, Ltd., of Jackson, have reviewed information submitted by counties concerning costs involved in switching to the unit system.

The other CPAs involved in the project are Roger E. Muns of Roger E. Muns & Company of Jackson, and Mark Bullock, general manager of Jackson Supply Company.

After reviewing the cost estimates, the team of CPAs arrived at the following conclusions:

A number of the cost estimates submitted by the counties were based on faulty effort on the part of the supervisors to present misleading cost data. A number of the estimates reflected exaggerations that were not defensible on the law and appear to be designed to generate resistance to the change. Such estimates have little basis in law and/or fact.

The improper cost estimates tended to reflect the worst case scenario, which is generally not the proper way to manage the county. We think that Mississippians want and deserve the best case scenario.

The taxpayers of Mississippi are interested in net cost. Many of the estimates ignored the savings to be generated. The initial one-time costs will lead to savings over a period of time; thus, we will have better government that will be run in a more efficient and less costly manner.

The taxpayers of this state have been misled for too long on the issue of county unit. But now an independent source has come forward to present an accurate picture of the true nature of county unit.

FROM THE CAPITOL

By Governor
Ray Mabus

Lately, many Mississippians have been talking about the importance of voting 'yes' on Nov. 8 for the unit system of county government.

They have made plain-spoken, sensible arguments for the unit system: The unit system helps stop corruption, and it saves money.

This week, I would like to share some of their comments with you.

In the past few days Secretary of State Dick Molpus laid it out on the line. He said, "There is absolutely no justifiable reason why government cannot be operated in an efficient tax-saving manner. County unit is a concept whose time has come in Mississippi. If we are to have a competitive county government structure, the antiquated beat system should be put aside as best suited for days gone by."

Also, Attorney General Mike Moore and U.S. Attorney George Phillips have said the unit system of government will help protect taxpayers against corruption.

The Mississippi Economic Council, often referred to as the 'State Chamber of Commerce,' has supported the unit system for more than 30 years. And two government committees of the Meridian Chamber of Commerce has endorsed the unit system.

Newspapers from the smallest towns to the biggest cities in Mississippi have said the unit system is the way to go.

And the definite study on the unit system—done by Mississippi State University on Neshoba County—shows that the unit system produces benefits for citizens in many areas such as economic development.

Based on the Neshoba County experience, where the centralized county labor and equipment crews were used to help building an industrial park, MSU found that under the unit system counties "can produce opportunities for these citizens heretofore unavailable to them."

Candidates must recognize separation of state, church

To the Editor:

Political candidate, I want you to know I feel you insulted the members of St. Matthew Catholic Church Sunday morning by handing out your cards to the members of our parish family after Mass.

I feel you used the Lord's house and His people gathered together in a spirit of worship and fellowship for your own political purposes.

You can be sure you have offended many people.

The state does not allow prayer in our schools. How dare you use the church for political purposes.

Some will take advantage of the elderly, if given a chance

To the Editor:

What's happening in this small town when someone takes advantage of an elderly lady of 74 years old?

She ran out of gas in Hancock County and a person stopped to help...she thought.

"Can I help you?" he asked. Mom said, "Yes, I'm out of gas."

"Give me your gas can and some money, I will get it for you," he said.

She gave him a $20 bill—that was all she had—never to see him or the other person that was with him in an old green car with a black top.

Bay school system needs volunteers

To the Editor:

I read with great interest in the 10/25/88 Sun Herald that the special meeting of the Bay/Waveland School Board has been postponed. Hopefully they will have second thoughts and allow the budget to remain as voted on.

What a despicable attitude to take regarding reimbursement for material and related expenses for a volunteer to help to inform and make aware those options open to the school system, business and the taxpayers for the improvement of our schools.

Without volunteers our small community would surely be lacking in many services: Hospital, Welcome Center, Chamber of Commerce, Food Bank, Humane Society and many others too numerous to mention in this letter.

I have been a volunteer for many years and for many projects.

My favorite, of course, is the City of Waveland. I give of my time and energy and the Mayor and Board of Aldermen have yet to refuse to reimburse me for any material expenses I incur in this endeavor. This is also true of the Board of supervisors. I thank both of them for allowing me to help my community.

I believe the school board needs to take a realistic look at their endeavors and define where they are going. I hope it's the same place our young people would like to go—to a better opportunity.

Ms. Diboll's phone number, no doubt, is ringing off the wall and well it should. She needs to hear the voice of the people.

Waveland resident responds to Ku Klux Klan march

To the Editor:

Last week, the Gulf Coast saw an attempt to resurrect something that ought to be buried and forgotten: the Ku Klux Klan. We, who are followers of Jesus Christ, resent the Klan's use of the term 'Christian Knights.' They are no more Christian than the Nazis, who slaughtered Jews in the name of Christ, or the so-called Christian factions killing Muslims in the Middle East.

If this white blight and embarrassment to the American people continues to persist, then one million Americans died in vain during the Civil War.

Waveland resident commends District I supervisor

To the Editor:

I would like to compliment District One Supervisor Robert Peterson.

I have lived in Waveland for 71 years and I have never seen the street, ditches, roads, etc. (oh yes!) the beach and the beach road look so good. He has someone picking up trash, etc. every week in his district.

All the pot holes are filled and all the dirt that was washed away by the hurricane has been put back.

The seawall was built in 1929-1930—that's 58 years ago. In all these years, not one supervisor has ever paved places on the seawall road to park cars on. But Robert Peterson has. I think Mr. Peterson should be complimented on the things he has done in the short time he has been in office.

Mr. Peterson, keep up the good work. I'm sure glad I live in your district.

Common Cause supports unit system implementation

To the Editor:

Voters will make several important decisions on Nov. 8, but none is more vital than the county unit proposition. By requiring centralized purchasing, the Legislature did only part of the job of reforming county government. Now it is up to the voters to choose a system for every county that has proved to be more efficient and more accountable to the people.

The beat system is wasteful, allowing unnecessary duplication of personnel and equipment. What is worse, it makes it easy for officials to steal public money. The arrests of 57 supervisors for corrupt practices clearly show the need to reform the good old boy system.

Can Mississippi afford not to clean up and modernize county government, as 46 other states have already done by adopting the unit system?

Vote YES on county unit on November 8.

Sincerely,
Robertta Madden

The House of Representatives version of the legislation, somewhat more detailed than the senate version, stated that Glazier had not only devoted 23 years of service to the state, Barnett, Paul B. Speakers at the ceremony included Deaton, former State Representative Walter James Phillips of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi Technology Transfer Center Director James G. Miller, Stennis Space Center Deputy Director Roy Estess, Hlass and Lieutenant Governor Brad Dye.

Deaton called the technology transfer center "a sleeping giant" and said "there is no other location in this state where you have a center of brain power in this area" and commended Glazier for being "Very much a scientist in the science of government" and a major supporter of the space center.

THE WORK WITH YOU CANDIDATE:

KELVIN SCHULZ

SUPERVISOR - DISTRICT 4

It has been written that some people pretend to see the light when what has really happened is that they felt the heat.

My candidacy for Supervisor is neither the result of having suddenly seen the light nor the result of having suddenly felt the heat. It was not a sudden decision, undertaken recklessly, nor was it the other kind - the kind prompted by the candidate's wife's desire to get said mate out of the house.

I am committed to this candidacy simply because I think I can do the job and would like to do it. I don't believe in drafting candidates. Someone who has to be goaded or cajoled into running, perhaps by special interests, simply doesn't bring to the office the enthusiasm and the confidence that any office requires if the people are to be well served.

I am a Hancock Countian, and I am herewith offering my own enthusiasm, my own confidence, and my own candidacy - obligated to no political faction - to the public of Hancock County.

Who am I? Kelvin Schulz, a Bay St. Louis businessman and candidate for District 4 Supervisor of Hancock County. I am a Real Estate Broker & Appraiser, and I own and operate the Big "E" Grocery & Seafood Co.

I reside at 600 South Beach Boulevard with my wife the former Emily Mollere, and our three children: Alicia (7), Allison (4), and Buddy (10 mos.). My wife is a Registered Nurse with a Bachelor of Science degree in Nursing from the University of Southern Mississippi, and she is a Home Health Nurse for South Mississippi Home Health Corporation.

I graduated from John F. Kennedy High School in New Orleans and studied Industrial Technology at the University of Southwestern Louisiana in Lafayette. I have also completed course work in Management and Real Estate at the University of Southern Mississippi, and I recently was awarded the Certified Real Estate Broker designation by the Realtors Institute.

I am a charter member and past president of the Hancock County Exchange Club, member of the Board of Directors of the South Mississippi Exchange Club, Prevention of Child Abuse Center, third and fourth-degree member of the Knights of Columbus Pere le Duc Council, and member of the Waveland Civic Association, the West Gulf Coast Board of Realtors, the Firemen's Charitable Benevolent Association, and the St. Stanislaus Sideline Club.

I am eager for the campaign and ready for action. We need cooperation and a spirit of working together to improve Hancock County. Work with me - I'll work with you, and with the County agencies, for Utilization of the Unit System to Our Advantage. It will take experience and know-how to implement the Unit System for our benefit - I have it, and I can do it.

Improved County Employment/Personnel Programs. To prevent service losses caused by turnover, we need more employee benefits, and we need a clear-cut chain of command.

A Full-time County Fire Department. Lower fire insurance rates would be the welcome result.

A Municipal Services Building. We need this to house: a Senior Citizens Center, Mississippi Employment Service, the School Board, Veterans Affairs Office, Health Department, Port & Harbor Administration, and many other public services.

More Sewage & Water Service, especially for Shoreline Bayside, Pearl-Lington, and Back Bay.

A Better Dump & Recycling. If the dump is set up correctly, we can sell recycled plastic & methane to county industries.

Improved Conditions for Law Enforcement. Hancock County needs support for state-of-the-art patrolmen, to improve law enforcement county-wide.

Four-laning Highways 608 & 43. Four-lane to the county line and improve other much-used city & county roads.

More Progressive Schools. The fastest-growing county needs the most progressive schools in the state.

Better Beach & Recreational Areas. Work with the Beach Advisory Board to protect the more stable beaches, create a buffer zone for parking between the roadway and the beach, and set aside more areas for fishing.

Finally, I am running to attract more businesses and industries to Hancock County for A Better Life for All Hancock Countians. I am running for Supervisor because I want that better life and a prosperous future for all of us. Why do I want that better future? I have three good reasons: my children - Alicia, Allison, and Buddy.

School saga continues

BY D.C. HARKVILL

The embroilment of controversy over the proposed Stennis Airport site of Hancock County's new high school have grown to wildfire proportions since being fanned by the Chamber of Commerce's public opposition to the site in late September.

Both the proponents and opponents of the site, in the ensuing weeks, have engaged in a roundelay-like volley of exchanges as each jockeyed for a stance from which to defend its position.

In addition to the Chamber, opponents to the site include the Port and Harbor Commission, the Board of Supervisors and a vocal petitioner, J.C. Seal.

All parties involved in the issue agree, however, that Hancock County needs a new educational facility.

The thrust of the opposition's argument is that the site is neither safe for a school, nor conducive to an educational atmosphere and the school's location will hinder future development at the park.

The Chamber's resolution stated that the airport constitutes a multi-million dollar investment on the part of the county and school at that proximity would hamper growth of the park.

It continues saying, "the ability to learn and safety of the students should not be jeopardized by the placement of the new educational facility adjacent to air-related and industrial activity."

"Specifically, the proposed location is in a future noise zone that will not be compatible for school purposes," the letter said.

Seal, the most vociferous opponent of the site, has circulated a petition which he claims contains more than 5,000 names. "It would take only one mishap at that airport," he said. Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph, along with School Site Selection Committee member Doug Moran and a small cadre of picketers have been the most vocal champions of the airport site.

Moran said he showed aerial photographs of the proposed school site to two Delta Airlines pilots and asked them, as professional pilots, if they thought it was a dangerous spot for a school.

"They said they didn't see any danger involved, in fact, because it is located to the side of the runway, air-traffic will probably never pass over the school," Moran said.

"The point of danger here has been greatly overplayed by laymen like myself. But I took the opinion of these professional pilots. I have a son who will be going to the school, if they had told me there was any danger I would have been the first to oppose the site," he added.

Seal counts among his arsenal a letter from the Economic Development Association to the Board of Supervisors saying the terms of the park's development grant may be violated if the school uses its water and sewerage capacity.

If the terms of the grant are violated the county may have to pay back the full amount, according to the letter. The grant was approximately $697,000.

He also flaunts a letter from the FAA saying it cannot concur in the location of a school adjacent to the airport, "because it would not be compatible with airport operations."

"By copy of this letter we are also advising the Hancock County Board of Supervisors of their obligations under the prior grant agreement...to restrict the use of land adjacent to or in the immediate vicinity of the airport to activities and purposes compatible with normal airport operations."

Randolph counters that the EDA letter was based on incomplete information.

"The individual who wrote the letter told me he wrote them the letter because the Port and Harbor Commission told them the school would use all of the park's sewerage capacity. When we made the agreement with the commission to use their system, however, we gave them $85,000 in escrow as a contingency fund in case the system ever needed to be expanded. He said he would have to check into that because they hadn't told him that."

The FAA letter was not an official position. Mr. Randolph, a civil engineer, planning and development, FAA in Jackson) said the letter is not an official position of the FAA but his own opinion. He assured me the FAA cannot regulate the location of this school, they are only concerned with the center line approach and takeoff," Randolph said.

"We could find no occurrence in the Board of Supervisors records to indicate the FAA had no regulation, or had asked the supervisors, to restrict use of the property adjacent to the airport," he added.

Jay, however, said, "I think Mr. Randolph misunderstood. That land is outside of the airport's property, so it is true we cannot have an official position on it, but I couldn't call the letter my personal opinion. It is the opinion of my boss and my boss' boss. We would send the same letter to anyone with the same situation."

"While we cannot regulate construction outside of the airport's boundary, we are concerned with any construction in the vicinity of an airport."

Jay said, new construction in the vicinity of an airport must meet certain height requirements. A report of such construction must be made to the FAA for investigation.

"Actually the FAA doesn't have to concur or not occur; the obligation of seeing that the operation of the airport is not interfered with lies with the Board of Supervisors," Jay said.

He indicated that one consequence of airport interference might be a loss of federal funding for Stennis Airport.

Randolph maintains that the main reason for locating the school at Stennis is so it will be near Pearl River Community College's vocational-technical complex already at the park. With the school at that location, students from the school will not have to travel Highway 603 four times a day to and from the vo-tech center.

Also, Pearl River's president, Ted Alexander, has committed to a $500,000 expansion at the complex if the school is built there, Randolph said.

Randolph said, with the college facilities near the school, students will have a greater educational opportunity. Also the county will be offered the benefits of a community college complex.

"When it is completed we will have the finest education facility in the state," he said.

"Dr. Alexander said they would see no need to expand if we do not locate adjacent to the vo-tech. It would not be feasible to expand."

Randolph argues that many opponents of the site, including J.C. Seal, have children who attend the vo-tech center on a daily basis and none of them have complained of that being dangerous.

"If they really want us to get off this site we would be happy to move if the Port and Harbor Commission and the Board of Supervisors would purchase the junior college whereas they would move to another location adjacent to the high school.

"But, we are not going to wait around, in case they are going to use this as a stalling tactic. There is no way we are going to stop what we are doing," Randolph said.

Stennis Airport the site of Coast Air Show Oct. 29-30

Featuring Aerobatics, military and homebuilt aircraft and radio-controlled aircraft, the 10th Annual Gulf Coast Air Show is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 29-30 at Stennis Airport in Hancock County.

The two-day event is being sponsored by Experimental Aircraft Association Chapter 479, a group of Gulf Coast aviation enthusiasts.

Aircraft displays will be available for viewing from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Aerial activities will begin at 1:30 p.m. each day with fly-bys and demonstration of antique and homebuilt aircraft.

The two-hour air show starts at 2 p.m. and will feature skydiving, military and experimental aircraft performing aerobatic routines and precision flight demonstrations.

Military aircraft installations providing aircraft for the Halloween weekend event include Keesler Air Force Base, Biloxi; Air National Guard of Jackson, Miss.; Air Force Reserve and Navy Reserve of Belle Chase, La.; Naval Air Stations in Meridian, Miss.; Pensacola, Fla. and Whiting Field, Fla.; Columbus Air Force Base, Miss.; Army Reserve, Lake Front, La.; and the U.S. Coast Guard of Mobile, Ala.

Aerobatic pilots for the air show include Joe Harting of New Roads, La. in a T-6 aircraft; Ennie Argence of River Ridge, La. in a Christen Eagle; Frank Jones of Petal, also flying a Christen Eagle, and Robby Jones of Minter City, Miss. in a P-51 Fighter.

Precision flying at the air show will include four T-6's under the direction or organizer

Vic Schilleci of New Orleans. Schilleci will also provide a T-28 aerobatic routine.

Radio-controlled aircraft model including a one-quarter scale model with up to a seven-foot wing span will also be on display at the air show.

The 1988 Gulf Coast Air Show is the second to be conducted at the EAA Group's new quarters at Stennis Airport in Hancock County. Previous shows were held on a small grass airstrip north of Gulfport and were known as the Shade Tree Fly-In and Air Show.

This year's show at Stennis Airport will be much larger than past shows because of expansion allowed by Stennis' extensive facilities including a long and modern runway.

The air show will still be conducted in the old-fashioned family style with plenty of interesting aircraft, food and refreshments for the enjoyment of the general public.

For children and the young-at-heart, a special attraction will be the F-16 Mini-Jet, a 15-foot powered model of the F-16 jet fighter. Driven by Sgt. Jerry Gordon, Air Force recruit of Gulfport, the Mini-Jet will give free rides around the parking apron for youngsters. Youngsters may have their photo taken in the Mini-Jet.

Hot air balloon rides and helicopter rides will also be available for both adults and children. A C-130 Hercules transport aircraft from Keesler Air Force Base will be on display. A donation of $2500 for children under 12. Free parking. Free food and refreshments. Free admission.

Johnson to resign from county post

BY DENA BISNETTE
Hancock County Maintenance Superintendent Bill Johnson is resigning to take a private sector job.

Johnson, who started working with the county when the unit system was first implemented more than two years ago, will give formal notice to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors at Monday's meeting.

The resignation becomes effective Nov. 15.

Johnson, the county's first maintenance superintendent, has overseen road, bridge and grounds maintenance for the county as well as being in charge of the county landfill at Catahoula.

Johnson will take over management of Gulf Coast Waste, a garbage collection firm which is a subsidiary of R.S.I.

"I want people to know that I started out over two years ago putting together the unit system and implementing it and I feel the county has done well with it," Johnson stated.

"I feel like in lot of ways system has already started a lot of improvements for the county. We put a lot of time and effort into putting it together and making it work."

"I have been in public service for over 17 years and still have a great deal of interest in city and county government, and will make myself available to the county in future and at this time regarding any ongoing projects."

Prior to working for Hancock County, Johnson was public works administrator for the City of Ocean Springs, worked for the State Tax Commission and served as public works administrator for the City of Bay St. Louis.

Bulloch to head Latter-Day Saints Mississippi mission

Why would a Nevada businessman leave his thriving business and a new home to work in Mississippi for the next three years without any pay for his services?

"Because I was called here by a Prophet of God," answers Boyd C. Bulloch, recently appointed president of the Mississippi Jackson Mission of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormons).

The mission covers most of Mississippi and part of Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas. Bay St. Louis and Waveland have two missionaries assigned to work in the area. The local chapel is located on McLauren Street in Waveland.

The church has no professional clergy. Lay members are chosen to serve in various offices in the church and they are not paid for their services.

"We're here to let the people know that the Gospel of Jesus Christ has been restored to the earth. There is a prophet living today who receives revelation from God, Ezra Taft Benson," Bulloch stated.

The church is growing rapidly in the South. There are now 17,000 members of the church within the boundaries of the mission. Missionaries support them in their efforts to help their neighbors better understand the church's Christian beliefs.

Though officially named The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, it is often called the 'Mormon' Church. The name comes from the Book of Mormon which the church presents to the world as a record of Jesus Christ's dealings with the people of ancient America. It is used as scripture in addition to the Holy Bible; the record of Jesus Christ's ministry in the Old World.

When the church was organized on April 6, 1830, it had only six members. Today, there are about seven million members in 95 countries and some 20 colonies, territories or possessions. Headquarters for the church are in Salt Lake City.

President Bulloch will be in charge of 160 missionaries for the church. Most are young men and young women in their early 20s. Many older couples also serve missions when they retire. All serve voluntarily at their own expense. They are part of a force of more than 35,000 missionaries serving worldwide.

The missionaries present a series of six informal discussions outlining the teachings of the church. Participants are free to stop the discussions at any time they choose.

Coming to Mississippi with Bulloch is his wife Patricia and three of their 11 children, Rebecca 10, Roger 15, and Troy 18. Another son, Scott, is presently serving a mission in St. Louis. All of their other children are married.

"One of the hardest things we did was to leave behind our 17 grandchildren," Bulloch said. "We are a close family and really enjoy being together. Our weekly Family Home Evenings often include 28 people."

Family Home Evening is a church-sponsored program where families set aside one night each week to meet and discuss important gospel principles, improve family communication and have fun activities.

"I know we will enjoy living in the South," Bulloch said. "It's a great place to live and raise a family. The whole purpose of the church is to strengthen and help families."

The Bullochs come to Mississippi from Las Vegas, Nev. where Bulloch was a real estate developer. He also served his church as the public communications director for the state of Nevada and was the coordinator for the church's new Las Vegas Temple being built there. Since arriving in Mississippi, Bulloch has enjoyed going door-to-door meeting Southerners with many of his missionaries.

"The people in the South are the most gracious, friendly people I've ever met. Southern hospitality is really true," Bulloch said.

Bulloch has chosen as his counselors Jerry Cronin, a health care administrator in Clinton, Miss.; Grant Hanny, a retired Idaho farmer now serving a mission with his wife Edith in Magnolia, Ark.; and Emory Henry, a retired engineer and surveyor from Kingsport, Tenn., serving a mission with his wife Peggy in Meridian.

Bulloch succeeds Jerry Calister who served in Mississippi for the past three years. He returns with his family to Merced, Calif. to resume his law career.

'Project Grandpa' enhances lives of Hancock pre-schoolers

BY JANET MCQUEEN

"Project Grandpa" is thriving since its last report in The Sea Coast Echo. Profiled in a Sunday edition, the project succeeds on the volunteered talents of area gentlemen who spend several hours a week providing a "grandfather" image to local pre-schoolers.

According to Brother Canisius of St. Stanislaus, architect of the project, their goal is to "assist the teachers to develop the learning skills of the 3 and 4-year-olds in the Hancock County Child Development Center and Hancock County Head Start, and to provide a male influence among the children." He noted that many of them don't have "grandpas".

Visits are made on Tuesday mornings to the Child Development Center by volunteers Joy Burnett, Frank Cain, Tom Flynn, Gene Monti, Henry Lang, Owen McArdle and Brother Canisius.

Following the success of this program, Thursday visits to the Headstart Center were initiated. Thursday "Grandpas" are the Reverend Charles Johnson, Frank Cain, Frank Lagarde, the Reverend Robert Miller, Brother Albert Guarino, Brother Canisius, Brother Martin and Brother Pascal.

Make the most of Halloween pumpkins

Halloween is a time for pumpkins to be all dressed up like jack-o-lanterns. But what happens to these creatures after the trick-or-treaters turn into 'real people' again?

Pumpkins used just for jack-o-lanterns can be costly. Why not plan ahead and utilize this fall vegetable to its best advantage. Pumpkin is an excellent source of vitamin A.

Rather than carving the face into the pumpkin, draw the features on with felt tip markers and put a spotlight on it. This way, the pumpkin does not begin to deteriorate as it does when it sits open for several days.

After Halloween, the pumpkin can be utilized for its nutritious value. Remove the seeds and toast for a delicious snack food. Just place cleaned seeds on a baking sheet, add a small amount of oil and shake to coat seeds. Sprinkle with salt and toast in a medium hot oven until lightly browned.

The pumpkin can be cooked in several ways. After peeling, cut into small pieces, steam or broil until tender. Also, the pumpkin can be cut in half and then baked in the oven (wrap in foil to retain moisture).

With a fairly small pumpkin, cut off the top (about an inch down), scoop out the seeds and wash the inside cavity. Fill the cavity with a meat mixture such as ground beef or pork, rice and seasonings of your choice or a bread and fruit mixture (bread cubes, apples, raisins and spices). Place pumpkin on a baking pan, replace the top of the pumpkin and bake slowly until it is tender and the stuffing is cooked.

The cooked cubed pumpkin can be used in many recipes such as bread, cookies, pies, cakes and casseroles. Since a pumpkin can be quite large, there will probably be plenty of pumpkin to use fresh and plenty to freeze. After cooling the cooked pumpkin, mash or leave in cubes, then place in freezer containers, seal and label. This can be stored in the freezer for eight to 12 months.

For those of you who insist on carving a face on the jack-o-lantern, wait until Halloween to do the cutting so it can be utilized for food. Place the jack-o-lantern in a safe place. To avoid burning the inside of the pumpkin, use a small flashlight instead of a candle for lighting up the face.

After the festivities are over, place the cut pumpkin in the refrigerator until the next day for peeling, slicing and cooking in recipes or for freezing for later use.

I checked around and the closest 'pick-your-own' pumpkin patch is in Picayune. Take exit 4 off I-59. Turn right on Ridge Road. It is part of Santa's Forrest. The telephone number is 799-2124. What a great family outing for this weekend!

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

It's Hallowe'en 'Time again, and that means grinning Jack O'Lanterns and trick-or-treating and ducking for apples and all that fun—but then there's always the Jack O'Lantern left over, turned back into his pumpkin self—and whatever in the world are you going to do with it?

Surely, you're not going to toss it out after the fun's over, are you? No, you're going to be thrifty and use it up, to the last bite. But, let's be a bit more original than pumpkin pie, although that's such a traditional dish in America.

But, there's so much more to pumpkin than pie. Ever since Colonial days, when pumpkin was a morning, noon and night staple, canny housewives have been devising various methods of using this colorful member of the squash family.

In fact, pumpkin may be substituted for any other winter squash in just about any recipe—steamed or fried or stuffed, made into casseroles and so on. It makes a tasty bread or pudding, or addition to a stew as well.

I like pumpkin tidbits or slices, fried and seasoned, served as an accompaniment to a cup of broth or at the cocktail hour. So, here's:

PUMPKIN CHIPS

- 8 oz. fresh pumpkin, pared, seeded and sliced thin
- Oil for cooking
- 1/4 tsp. garlic powder
- Dashes of pepper and salt as desired

After you've pared and seeded pieces of the pumpkin, slice quite thinly, as for potato chips, making two cupfuls. Soak in ice water for an hour or so, then drain and pat dry.

Fry in deep, hot oil, 350 degrees, until browned, for two minutes or so. Drain on paper toweling. Combine seasonings and sprinkle or sieve over.

I like to use cayenne pepper, or a combination of pepper, for extra 'zing' and at times add the merest dash of curry powder for a variation in taste.

And, if the 'Hallowe'ners' haven't smashed Jack

O'Lantern up too much, you can even dig out the inside, cook and use the pumpkin itself as a serving 'bowl' for pumpkin soup! (Copyright, 1988, Katharine D. M. Caire)

CAR CARE

This fall, get your car revved up for a trouble-free winter

Take great care of your car by practicing preventive medicine

Every winter, countless motorists find themselves—and their cars—unprepared for the first really cold weather or the first snowfall.

It's easy to procrastinate. You tell yourself that maybe next weekend, or the weekend after that, you'll do the necessary work, or take the car to a mechanic.

Then, suddenly, winter is upon you, and it's so cold that you dread going outside to work on your car. And, all the local mechanics are too busy to take care of your car, because everyone else procrastinated, too.

This year, don't put it off. Getting your car ready for winter now will save you time, and can even prevent your car from being damaged by conditions for which it's not prepared.

Getting your car ready for winter doesn't just mean putting on snow tires, though that's certainly an important part of it.

This is a good time to take your car to a mechanic for a complete diagnostic checkup, because anything that's not quite right now is sure to cause you problems in adverse weather conditions. This is a good pre-winter investment, especially if you're not an expert do-it-yourselfer.

A diagnostic checkup is not the same thing as a traditional tune-up. While the tune-up may have been considered a panacea in the past, today's cars require accurate diagnosis.

Instead of routinely replacing things like points, plugs and condensers, the technician must make a thorough diagnosis of what's causing hard starting, poor performance, reduced fuel economy or increased emissions. He or she can no longer replace some parts and make a few simple adjustments to get the engine running like new.

If you're experiencing engine problems, you may or may not need servicing of one of the subsystems. The ignition system, the fuel system and the emission other necessary work yourself.

Here's a checklist, from Car Care Council, of things you should do to get your car ready for winter.

1) Cooling System: Flush the system out with a good chemical cleaner and install fresh antifreeze. Make sure to dilute the antifreeze to the proportion indicated on the container, as pure antifreeze will not work well.

Also check connections, belts, hoses, pressure cap and thermostat. control systems must work in close harmony with each other. That's where accurate diagnosis comes in.

But, apart from this fairly complicated analysis, you can probably do most of the

DOES YOUR CAR HAVE GOOD TIMING?

What do a rock band, a ball team and your car's engine have in common? Timing!

Timing in an automobile engine, according to Car Care Council, is defined as the regulation of the spark impulse so that the spark occurs at the proper time for ignition. It also refers to regulation of a valve's opening and closing.

Considering that each spark plug in a V-8 engine fires 525 times per minute at 55 miles per hour, there is little margin for error. If ignition takes place too soon in the cycle (it is referred to as "too far advanced"), the engine is likely to knock or ping and may run erratically.

When ignition occurs too late (called retarded timing), the result is likely to be sluggish performance, excessive fuel consumption and hard starting.

Incorrect timing is a common condition. On older vehicles' ignition systems with distributor and ignition points, components wear and periodic adjustments and replacement are necessary.

Later model cars, with electronic ignition systems, are less likely to go out of timing. Nevertheless, it is still important to have checked as part of a tune-up or any other engine diagnosis.

On many cars, the timing mechanism is driven by a rubber belt, as opposed to a chain or gears as in other vehicles. This belt is subject to wear and may have to be replaced after about 60,000 miles. A loose belt can cause loss of power, backfiring and hard starting if the engine runs at all.

While timing belts may last a great deal longer than 60,000 miles, it is wise to anticipate the possible need for replacement as part of a tune-up.

2) Battery and Electrical System: Cold weather is hard on batteries, so be sure connections are clean and tight. Corroded or loose connections can give the symptoms of a weak or dead battery.

3) Oil and Filter: Dirty oil can give you trouble in the winter. Now's the time to change it. Change the oil filter, too. Your car may have several other filters, including the fuel, air and transmission filters, that may need changing at this time.

4) Tires: For every 10° of temperature drop, your tire pressure decreases by one pound. If you haven't checked your tires since last summer, they're likely to be several pounds underinflated.

5) Body and Paint: Be sure to give the car a good protective coating of wax before the weather turns nasty. This is critical in areas where salt is used for snow removal, because salt is extremely corrosive.

And, if you prepare your car for winter's harsh conditions, you may be able to keep it out of the shop entirely. There's a lot to be said for getting the car care chores out of the way before severe weather arrives.

CAR CARE

A step-by-step guide to changing your own motor oil

The use of a technically advanced motor oil with superior lubricating qualities and adherence to a good maintenance schedule has never been more important.

Today's high performance, fast burn and fuel-efficient engines are placing a greater demand on motor oil than ever before. They start up and take off more quickly, and produce searing heat that can begin to break down an oil immediately.

The oil change recommendation offered by the vehicle manufacturer can be found in the owner's manual. The "normal service" recommendation represents the maximum allowable drain interval under ideal driving conditions.

However, for excessive short trip driving, stop-and-go traffic, dusty road conditions or extreme hot or cold weather, the oil should be changed more frequently, following the guidelines for severe service conditions.

Never exceed your automaker's warranty requirements and, in all cases, consult your owner's manual for special requirements. Generally, changing motor oil and oil filter every 3,000 miles or three months (whichever comes first) will afford superior engine protection and long engine life.

Materials you will need

- 1) Approximately five quarts of motor oil. Check your owner's manual for the proper SAE viscosity, API performance and quantity required for your engine.
- 2) New oil filter: Most cars use "spin-on" type, available in various sizes. Check your manual for type and size.
- 3) Drain plug socket wrench or open end wrench (exact size), plus an oil filter wrench.

4) Large drain pan, six to eight quart capacity.

Safety first

- Read your owner's manual for specific safety precautions before going under car.
- Do not use a bumper jack to hold up car while underneath. (Portable wheel ramps if available, are ideal and safer.)
- Put car in gear or "park." Set brakes and chock both wheels with wooden blocks to prevent car from rolling.
- Do not start engine without oil.

- Follow local ordinances when disposing of drained oil.

Step one

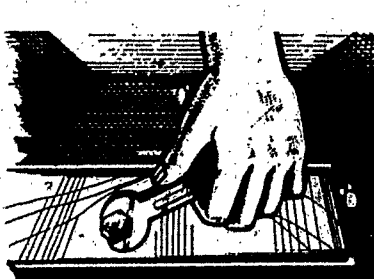

Warm engine to its normal operating temperature (about five to 10 minutes idling).

Switch off engine. Raise the hood, locate the oil filler cap and loosen it.

Step two

Locate the oil drain plug underneath the car, at the bottom rear end of the engine sump (or oil pan). Do not loosen the automatic transmission drain plug, usually located further back. (When in doubt, refer to your owner's manual.)

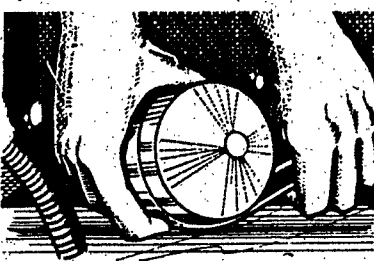

Place the drain pan beneath the drain plug and slightly towards the back. Engage the plug with your wrench and turn it counterclockwise until it rotates freely. Finish removal by hand. Be careful of hot oil, and avoid dropping plug into drain pan.

Step three

Loosen oil filter (it may be hot) by turning it counterclockwise with a filter wrench. Avoid touching the hot exhaust manifold. Complete removal of the filter manually, catching it in your hand.

If filter is installed "threads up," it will be filled with oil and slightly heavy. Ease it down and away from engine, then tip it over into the drain pan.

Step four

Clean in and around the filter seat on the engine with a rag. Take a new filter and apply a light oil film to gasket (this film provides necessary sealing).

Carefully screw the new filter onto the threaded oil line, turning it clockwise. Once aligned properly, the filter will thread on easily. Snug up tightly by hand. Do not use a wrench or overtighten.

Step five

Clean the oil plug and drain seat. Align and replace the plug; screw it in carefully by hand and avoid "cross threading." Tighten the plug firmly or snugly with a wrench. Do not overtighten.

Step six

Fill the engine with the required quantity of oil. Check oil dipstick to assure proper fill level. The oil light should go out soon after the engine is started.

Run engine for several minutes, turn off engine and recheck oil dipstick to assure proper oil level.

Then check under the car for leaks. Keep a written record of the current mileage and date in the glove compartment.

For the finest engine care, use premium motor oils. Castrol GTX Super Multi-Grade is a high performance motor oil that is designed to meet the needs of today's high revving, hot running, fast burn engines. It is a shear stable motor oil that, in every grade, provides maximum protection against viscosity and thermal breakdown.

Castrol GTX is formulated to provide maximum protection against motor oil breakdown. Castrol's exclusive additive package contains unique viscosity improvers, anti-oxidants, detergents, sludge dispersants and varnish inhibitors.

Castrol products exceed the performance and warranty requirements of every car and light truck on the road, exceeding the highest API (American Petroleum Institute) performance specifications.

Castrol GTX motor oils are Turbo Approved, and exceed the performance requirements of all turbo gasoline and turbo diesel passenger car engines.

Precautions to follow

- Prolonged and repeated skin contact with used motor oil should be avoided.
- Wash thoroughly with soap and water to remove motor oil from skin. Do not use gasoline or other organic solvents.
- Skin contact with clothing that is oil-soaked should be avoided. Oil-soaked clothes should be washed before re-use. All oil-soaked articles that are unwashable should be discarded.
- Dispose of used oil in accordance with Federal, state and local regulations. If possible, deliver to a certified used oil reclamation center. Protect the environment and dispose of used oil properly.

CAUTION: Prolonged and repeated skin contact with used motor oil may be harmful.

Used motor oils have been shown in laboratory tests to cause skin cancer in mice. No direct evidence exists of similar effects to humans in normal anticipated use. However, there may be a potential risk from prolonged or repeated skin contact in the absence of good personal hygiene.

Cure for cooling system trouble

A common reason for overheating, adds Car Care Council, is a clogged radiator. Under normal conditions, the cooling system should be drained and the dirty coolant replaced every year or two as a preventive measure. This is the time to flush out the system with a good chemical cleaner.

According to Car Care Council, overheating is often caused by low coolant level. Routine maintenance should include pressure testing to locate leaks and seepage.

Other causes of overheating include incorrect ignition timing, slipping fan belt or other malfunctions in the fan mechanism, faulty thermostat, a collapsed hose or a worn pressure cap.

If the engine is running hot, however, even a heavy duty cleaner may not remove the accumulation of scale and rust in the radiator and engine block.

That's when a professional job may be required. An experienced technician can usually determine whether or not the radiator core is plugged up, without removing it from the car.

"SPARK KNOCK" DEMANDS QUICK ATTENTION

Your car knocks or "pings" under load, such as when going up a long hill. Or perhaps it's losing power or is hard to start. Your mechanic may tell you your timing is "off."

This critical adjustment determines the precise point at which the spark plug will fire, igniting the fuel/air mixture in the combustion chamber. It is computer-controlled on many new cars but, on the vast majority of engines, timing still must be set according to factory specifications.

Cause of engine knock

If timing is over-advanced, meaning the spark occurs too soon, you'll probably hear engine knock: In extreme cases, this condition causes combustion chamber temperatures to rise to the point at which spark plugs are damaged or a hole can be burned through the top of a piston.

When you hear that familiar sound, sometimes referred to as "spark knock," check it out, advises Car Care Council. Beyond timing adjustment, there are other causes of this condition, including fuel octane that's too low, overheating of the engine, buildup of carbon in the combustion chamber and/or malfunction of the fuel or emission control systems. Whatever the reason, spark knock should be corrected quickly to protect the engine.

Less hazardous to the engine is retarded timing, in which ignition occurs too late. This will cause rough, sluggish engine performance and poor gas mileage.

Preventive measure

There is a popular misconception that cars with electronic ignition do not require checking of ignition timing. Wrong.

There is a popular misconception that cars with electronic ignition do not require checking of ignition timing. Wrong, says the Council. This adjustment is a standard procedure with a tune-up and, if symptoms so dictate, in between tune-ups as well.

A diagnostic checkup with electronic equipment is a good preventive measure, especially when the first sounds of spark knock appear, concludes Car Care Council.

CAR CARE

PROVEN PROS—Competent auto repair can be found at auto repair facilities that employ technicians certified by the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE). There are over 216,000 of these proven pros in the marketplace. They can be found at new car dealerships, service stations, independent garages, tire dealerships and volume retailers. Shops employing ASE technicians often display the ASE outdoor sign; the technicians usually wear a matching shoulder emblem.

In the fall, with the arrival of cooler weather, motorists often turn their attention to getting their cars ready for winter driving. Do-it-yourselfers seem to have no problems—indeed, they relish the opportunity of popping the hood and going to work.

But, due to ever-changing technology, many people would rather have a mechanic check out their car and perform any necessary repairs and service—if only finding good, competent auto repair weren't so handy.

Fortunately, finding a good auto mechanic need not be a guessing game. The non-profit National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence, better known as ASE, offers the following tips.

• Don't go it alone: Ask your friends, relatives and business associates for the names of shops they recommend. A consensus is more convincing than the advice of one person.

• Use local consumer groups: Your Better Business Bureau or similar consumer organization can tell you if the shop in question has many complaints lodged against it. They also should be able to tell you what constitutes an excessive number of complaints, and whether or not the complaints have been resolved.

• Look for signs of professionalism: For example, are there such things as customer service awards, certificates of appreciation, civic awards, etc., on the walls?

What about evidence of technical competence? Employers often will post their technicians' credentials (ASE certificates, diplomas from automotive training programs, advanced courses, etc.) in the customer service area.

• Look for certified technicians: The National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE) offers the only industry-wide, national credential available to working technicians.

Shops which employ ASE technicians usually display the bold blue and white ASE outdoor sign, while the technicians wear matching shoulder insignia.

ASE does not certify shops, only the technicians therein employed. ASE certification of a technician means that he or she is qualified to perform repair and service in given specialties, such as engine repair, brakes, etc.

• Look for organization: Does the shop appear to be orderly and relatively clean, and free of clutter and old parts? It doesn't have to be hospital clean, simply tidy and well-maintained.

• Get involved: Start by reading your owner's manual—even if you never intend to do the actual repairs yourself.

Be certain to have your vehicle serviced according to the manufacturer's recommended intervals as stated in the manual. If you do, your car probably will last longer. Keep a record of your repairs. Many manuals leave a page or two blank for that purpose.

• Look for shop policies: Are the policies concerning labor rates, guarantees, estimates, etc., posted in the customer service area? If they are unclear or not posted at all, is someone willing to explain them to your satisfaction?

• Stay involved: You can help the repair process by describing your car's symptoms. Use precise language. Don't try to diagnose the problem or insist upon a specific repair.

For example, do not rush in and say, "I need a complete tune-up." Instead, describe how the car is running—how it feels or sounds or handles. Let the experts make the final diagnosis, based upon your input, comments and observations.

• Remember, you're the boss: Admittedly, your technical ability is no match for the experts, but beware of any shop that does not welcome your comments. If no one seems to listen, or if you feel your car is being worked on, it is your right to ask for a complete explanation of what is being done. You may also want to ask for a written estimate of the cost of the work. If you are not satisfied with the work, you may want to ask for a refund of the money you paid for the work. If you are not satisfied with the work, you may want to ask for a refund of the money you paid for the work.

Helpful tips on how to talk to your mechanic

All too often, minor automobile repairs turn into major problems due to poor communications between car owners and their mechanics.

While mechanics seem to speak a language all their own, consumers can narrow the automotive communications gap by following a few simple rules, says Dave Bowman, a former Indy 500 mechanic.

"It's very important that both you and your mechanic understand what you are trying to say," says Bowman. "Good communications in the beginning will save you a lot of time later, and will ensure the problem is corrected properly. But keep things simple to avoid any mix-ups."

Bowman, who is now technical communications manager for Allied Aftermarket Division, suppliers of Fram, Bendix and Autolite products, recommends that you find a mechanic you can trust and who's willing both to talk and to listen.

"Even if you seem to be boring the mechanic, don't be afraid to describe the symptoms fully, leaving nothing out. If the mechanic seems too bored to listen, you may want to find one who will," says Bowman.

Other important suggestions from Bowman:

• Take the car for a test drive with the mechanic. This is the best way for a mechanic to hear engine noises or get a real feel for the problem. If the mechanic can spare 15 minutes to do this, he may save both himself and you a lot of problems later.

In addition, a good mechanic often will suggest a series of diagnostic tests to ensure that the right thing gets fixed the first time.

• Describe to the mechanic exactly when the problem occurs. Does it occur when you start the car, after it's been running for a while, when stopping? This information will enable the mechanic to narrow the possibilities down quickly.

• Require a written estimate. Never give a mechanic carte blanche. Tell the mechanic to give you a call if he finds any other problems before doing any work.

• Ask if the mechanic guarantees his work in writing or what his policy is regarding repairs that need attention later if not done properly.

• Look at the mechanic's shop. Is he certified by the Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE)? What kind of equipment does he have? Does he seem to have a lot of business? Does it seem to be an orderly shop? If not, this may be an indication of the type of work he does.

• When discussing what needs to be done, be sure to explain when you last had everything checked. If you haven't had your belts, filters or spark plugs checked in a while, this may be a good time to have it done.

Preventive maintenance is the best way to keep your car running smoothly and properly. Also, by keeping a log of repairs (plus oil and filter changes), you'll know what needs to be done and when.

"Most auto repair professionals are honest and most car owners are willing to pay a reasonable price for good repairs," concludes Bowman. "The difficulties between the two groups often are caused by poor communications."

"Smart consumers avoid problems and save money—simply by talking with their mechanic, making sure both parties understand each other and getting written estimates before any repairs are done."

PURE ANTIFREEZE IS NO SOLUTION

Visions of a frozen engine during the depths of a severe cold snap might encourage some zealous car owners to "fail safe" by pouring pure antifreeze into their cooling systems. Then, they learn the hard way that they have created, rather than solved, car problems.

Pure, undiluted antifreeze (ethylene glycol) solidifies at eight degrees above zero (Fahrenheit), warns Car Care Council. It is intended to be mixed into a 50 percent solution with water, which provides protection to -27°F. The maximum mix is 70 percent, says the Council, which protects to -85°F.

We employ technicians certified by the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence. Let us show you their credentials.

Precautions to follow

Prolonged and repeated skin contact with used motor oil should be avoided. Wash thoroughly with soap and water to remove motor oil from skin. Do not use gasoline or other organic solvents in contact with clothing that is oil-soaked. Oil-soaked clothing should be washed before re-use. Oil-soaked articles that are unwashed should be discarded.

Proper disposal of used oil in accordance with federal, state and local regulations is essential. Deliver to a certified used oil collection center. Protect the environment and dispose of used oil properly.

CAUTION: Prolonged and repeated contact with used motor oil may be harmful.

Used motor oils have been shown in laboratory tests to cause skin cancer in humans. No direct evidence exists of similar effects to humans in normal anticipated use. However, there may be a potential for cancer from prolonged or repeated skin contact in the absence of good personal hygiene.

System trouble

Common causes of overheating include incorrect ignition timing, slipping fan belt, or other malfunctions in the fan system, faulty thermostat, a clogged hose or a worn pressure cap.

If the engine is running hot, however, a heavy duty cleaner may not remove the accumulation of scale and rust from the radiator and engine block.

It's when a professional job may be needed. An experienced technician can determine whether or not the radiator core is plugged up, without removing it from the car.

CAR CARE

Grim results when you fill to brim

Do you try to "fill 'er up" to even money at the gas pump, causing the automatic nozzle to shut off several times before you're satisfied the tank is full? Break the habit, urges Car Care Council.

Overfilling can waste fuel and cause engine problems as well. Further, it pollutes the air.

The reason for all this, says the Council, is that raw gasoline at the top of the tank enters a tube leading to a vapor recovery container under the hood.

The charcoal filled canister is supposed to send gas vapors to the engine where they are burned off, but the raw gas presents a problem. It creates an over-rich mixture and causes poor combustion in the engine.

The results are poor gas mileage, rough running and possibly hard starting. You also may notice a gas odor in the car.

Unburned hydrocarbons from auto exhaust, a major cause of air pollution, have been reduced by 96 percent since 1960. The biggest source of trouble from the tail pipe now is due to maintenance neglect: A dirty air filter, worn spark plugs, incorrect timing or general lack of tune-up.

But other sources of hydrocarbon vapors, such as fuel evaporation when filling the vehicle, continue to plague us.

Corrective measures are being taken. In some states, for example, service stations must have special nozzles and hoses to capture these vapors and return them to the underground tanks. This is an expensive proposition, but effective.

There's talk of incorporating sealed systems on future vehicles, whereby the vapors cannot escape during the refueling process.

For now, however, vigilance is the answer.

And, of course, it is important to keep the engine in good mechanical condition. An added caution for motorists with respiratory ailments: Avoid gasoline fumes. They are especially irritating to sensitive lungs. Spend the little bit extra for full service, concludes Car Care Council.

Key checkpoints

Make sure that your brakes are in good shape, and check out the exhaust system to protect the driver and passengers from lethal carbon monoxide fumes during the winter season's "windows closed" driving weather.

If engine belts are cracked on the bottom or glazed on the sides, or if the car is four years old, the belts should be replaced immediately.

Choosing the right gasoline

Winter is coming and you're darn sure your car will be ready. There's a snow shovel in the trunk, anti-freeze under the hood and tires with plenty of traction for slippery conditions.

But what happens when that unexpected winter blessing—the balmy day comes along? Your car stumbles, stalls and maybe leaves you stranded on the road.

Don't be so quick to blame your car—whether it has 16,000 or 60,000 miles on it. What you pump into that car, the gasoline, has a lot to do with how well it starts, runs and sounds, advises the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association (MVMA).

Remember, it's not the brand of gasoline but the ingredients in it that determine what is best for your vehicle.

Gasoline is a complex mixture of various hydrocarbons. "Winter" gas is lighter and more volatile—the better to perform in cold weather, according to Fred W. Bowditch, MVMA Vice President for Technical Affairs.

In warm weather, gas should be heavier and less volatile to fuel motor vehicles more accurately.

As for your car's poor performance on that summer-like winter day, it could be due to a tank holding high-volatility "winter" gasoline—too light to perform effectively during a sudden hot spell. If gas is too volatile, or too light, pockets of vapor can form, causing the car to stall.

Petroleum refiners are required to adjust the mixture of their gasoline to match the climate and season changeability of the areas they supply, Bowditch points out.

Another factor in "knowing your gasoline," the MVMA Vice President says, is knowing the detergent it should have. Today's motor vehicles often need an extra cleaning boost from their gasoline.

If a car or light duty truck has fuel injection, it needs detergent gasoline. A fuel injection engine operates without a carburetor, spraying computer-measured fuel to each cylinder.

Using a gasoline that lacks detergents, Bowditch says, can result in a buildup of gas residue deposits in the fuel injector's tiny crevices.

"A badly clogged injector needs professional cleaning out, but sometimes a switch to a detergent-based gasoline can correct the problem," he adds.

Protect your car against the hidden enemy, rust

You may not be aware that today's new cars still need rust protection. You cannot always see the enemy because the enemy attacks from the inside out.

Although manufacturers have made many design changes and improvements in factory corrosion processes, rust quickly will find a vehicle's weak spots and start there first.

Overlapping seams are most vulnerable to rust and so are dissimilar metals, spot welds, severe bends and areas that are exposed to moisture and the elements.

A car may, on its outer metal surfaces, show no visible signs of rust for the first three years of use. But rust already is beginning its ugly task of destruction from the inside out, and these interior, hidden areas of the automobile are not protected by the manufacturers' corrosion warranties.

To make matters worse, we can look forward to over 11 million tons of salt being dumped on the roads in the United States and Canada this winter, according to a report by the Salt Institute.

Besides being one of the most abundant and cheapest chemicals in the world, road salt is also one of the most corrosive. Even when winter snows are long gone, dormant deposits of road salt on a vehicle again become corrosive when spring rains and road splash rewet them.

In addition, another salt even more powerful in promoting corrosion—calcium chloride—is used extensively to control dust on dirt roads across the country.

Also contributing to the problem is an increasingly severe environment, from salt-laden mist and high humidity year-round in coastal regions, to corrosive acid rain in industrialized areas.

What can consumers do to preserve and protect their hard-earned vehicles from the ravages of rust?

Aftermarket rust protection can be the answer, but there is a hitch. Consumers need to know what to look for:

1. Engineered processing specifications on microfiche for your particular make and model of car—domestic or import.

2. A direct-access, engineered application system of rust protection that provides long-term assurance against corrosion damage.

3. Certified technicians who use high-pressure direct spray tools and special state-of-the-art sealant to penetrate all interior rust-prone areas.

4. A lifetime full-repair warranty with yearly maintenance that covers the entire car.

Ziebart offers its exclusive rust protection for new cars which are a major consumer investment. For used cars, Ziebart has Rust Protection Systems I to IV, featuring a specially-designed sealant—Formula Xtra—that incorporates the latest corrosion technology.

Also available is Rust Eliminator for used cars, which extends the life of a car by protecting it from rust, even if corrosion has started already.

Ziebart—the rust protection experts for nearly three decades—is international in size, with more than 600 locations in 35 countries.

Ziebart Service Centers are known as The Car Improvement Specialists, offering a wide range of products, services and accessories for cars/trucks/vans that enhance their looks, extend their life and increase their value.

ENDANGERED SPECIES—Mississippi State University Biologist Dwight Bradshaw displays an Atlantic sturgeon (Acipenser oxyrinchus) caught by a gill-netter out of Bayou Cadet Tuesday. The fish, after being revived by forcing water through its gills with a bilge pump, was released. With ancestors going back hundreds of millions of years, the sturgeon represents the oldest living lineage of bony fishes. The species is anadromous, spending most of its life in salt and brackish water, entering freshwater to spawn. Two main spawning areas along the Gulf are the Pearl and Pascagoula Rivers. It can reach six feet in length and 100 pounds. Because it is slow to reach maturity and has been overfished, it currently is listed on Mississippi's endangered species list. Under Mississippi's Non-game and Endangered Species Act, it is illegal to take, possess, transport, export, process or sell any species listed as endangered. (Echo staff photo by D.C. Harvill)

MSU vs Alabama in homecoming game

Following a five-week absence, Mississippi State returns to Scott Field on the MSU campus Saturday for Homecoming '88 as the Bulldogs entertain the Alabama Crimson Tide. A sellout crowd in excess of 41,000 is anticipated for the game, which as a 1:30 p.m. kickoff time.

MSU enters the 73rd renewal of the long-running Mississippi State-Alabama football rivalry with a 1-6 overall record and an 0-4 league mark. Alabama bested Penn State 8-3 in a defensive struggle in Birmingham, Ala. last weekend to advance to 5-1 overall and 3-1 in the SEC.

The Bulldogs and the Crimson Tide have gone to football war 72 times over the years, dating back to 1896 and a 22-0 Alabama win in Tuscaloosa, Ala. Alabama owns a commanding 58-11-3 lead in the series, including a 33-6-1 edge in games played in Tuscaloosa, Ala. and a 7-1 lead in games played at Scott Field.

Hancock travels to Bay High turf in county rivalry

BY DENA BISNETTE

The undefeated Hancock North Central Hawks are not ruling out an upset Friday when they face their local rivals, the Bay High Tigers.

Hawk Head Coach Irvin Favre said Hancock North Central, currently playing the school's first undefeated season since 1977 and only the second in the history of the school, hasn't won the rivalry on Tiger turf since 1980.

The Tigers host again Friday night.

According to Favre, the game will not affect Hancock's standing with regard to the South State play-offs, but is regarded as a sort of unofficial county championship.

"This game is basically for bragging rights," Favre said. "We all know that."

"We're going down there and putting an undefeated record on the line again this week."

"Bay St. Louis is just trying to salvage themselves and they'd like nothing better than to be the spoiler. They've been good about that in the past," he continued.

"We definitely expect the Tigers to be ready."

Bay High has to be ready to face a football team that totally dominated its last game, beating George County; has no major injury problems, and has been relieved of the psychological burden of trying to get into the play-offs, having accomplished that last week.

According to Tiger Head Coach Bob Lumpkin, Bay High not only has a doubtful starter for Friday's game, but has to contend with a lack of depth as well.

Lumpkin said Billy Cuevas, a Tiger tackle, may or may not play Friday because he has the flu.

Probable starters, identified by offensive positions because most of them play both ways, include Chris Savage, center; Doral Nichols and Brian Favre, guards; Heath Hopgood and Harry Morel, tackles; Tim Allen, tight end; Charlie Mitchell, quarterback; Chuckie Dorsey, fullback; Darrin Washington, tailback; Thomas Brink or Willie Moody, tight end; and Alvin Dedeaux, wingback.

Unlike injuries, which may occur at any point in the season, lack of depth has chronically plagued the Tigers, who are undergoing a rebuilding year.

Lumpkin said, "Our kids want to win this ballgame. We're going to try to do that, but we know it's going to be mighty tough job."

"Hancock has an outstanding team. They're well balanced and well coached. They looked really awesome on tape."

He mentioned several excellent players on the Hancock team, including Terrence Goff, Ronald Doyle, Guy Graham and Jeff Moran, but was quick to point out that those players do not by themselves account for the team's excellence. He said Bay High would have to get through an exceptional offensive line to stop those players.

"We're certainly going to work real hard and see what we can do," he said.

Although the Tigers have a poor won-loss record this year, Lumpkin expressed pride in his team.

"I can't complain about the effort. We have lost some, but we should have won some. We're taking, but you can't go back and change that," the coach said.

What counts is that they haven't quit. They're still hanging in there."

Gametime is 7:30 p.m.

Bay Youth Football Saturday games listed

The first annual Bay Youth Football Association was deemed a successful event by BYFA officials who expressed gratitude to the teams who participated. Coach Cleveland Williams also thanked merchants who donated items for the jamboree; volunteers who helped in the concession stand; the people who worked the gate; the field crew and the fans who came out to support the games.

Saturday games will all be played at McDonald Field with the exception of Gulfview who will visit Bay High Stadium.

SATURDAY SCHEDULE

Opening ceremonies will begin at 11 a.m.

11:30 a.m.: All State Giants vs Gulf Coast Security Saints (six-minute quarters)

1 p.m.: Bay St. Louis Chargers vs Bay St. Louis Cowboys (seven-minute quarters)

2:30 p.m.: Gulfview Bulldogs vs Crescent Raiders (six-minute quarters)

4 p.m.: Big E Broncos vs Bay

St. Louis Rams (six-minute quarters)

5:30 p.m.: Bay St. Louis Cowboys vs Gulfview Bulldogs (seven-minute quarters)

The concession stand will be open with admission at the gate.

All State Giants' sponsor is agent James (Snuffy) Smith; Big E Broncos, Kelvin Schultz; Crescent Raiders, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Secret; and Gulf Coast Security Saints, Earl (Buck) Ladner.

Bay Youth Soccer standings listed

Bay Area Youth Soccer is approaching the middle of the fall season and exciting soccer action is taking place. The fall weather continues to be very cooperative and the soccer skills are developing as teams start to prepare for fall tournament.

Under-12

In Under-12, Coach Ronnie Lakon and the Hurricane team continue to lead the pack with one win and one tie. Coach Jerry Crawford's Bay Rats are in third place, also with one win and one tie.

The Hurricane Whoppers lost to McDonald Realty 4-0. Coach Laurent stated his team played well even though they lost the game, and goalkeeper Tommy Marsh played extremely well in the game and was named Player of the Week for the Whoppers.

Under-10

In Under-10 play, Coach Flowers' Rotary Falcons remain in the lead with one win and one tie, ahead of the other teams by one goal.

Coach Harry Peoples' Bad Blue team is in second place with one win and one tie. Coach Crawford's Bay Rats are in third place, also with one win and one tie.

Coach Porter's team defeated coach Dumbell's Jaguars by 2-1 in a very well played game featuring defense. Coach Porter's Paul Mott is credited with many good saves and Gary Hines and Christopher Calton were cited for their fine play.

The Bay Rats' Bad Blue team played the week before in an important game. In that game, Chris Porter and Kelly Porter each scored two goals. Coach Crawford credited them for their fine play.

game while Justin Wadsworth was cited for excellent defense.

Under-8

In Under-8 play, coach Steve Carver's Sweepers continue to lead the way with two wins and one tie. Coach Christine Ross' Raiders are in second place with one win, one loss and one tie. Coach Mike Carron's Tornados team is in third place with one win. Coach Jimmy King's Chargers are in fourth place with one win and one loss.

Even though the fall soccer season has started and some age groups have waiting lists, there are still openings in some age groups such as Under-8, Under-10, Under-12, Under-14, and Under-16 Boys.

If you are interested in joining a soccer team, contact Coach Ross at 238-1111 or Coach Carver at 238-1111.

USM to conclude home football season

The University of Southern Mississippi wraps up the home portion of its 1988 football schedule Saturday when the Golden Eagles entertain a strong Memphis State team.

It is also homecoming for USM and a variety of activities will be held in conjunction with homecoming weekend including the annual football game at the University of Van Hook Course, a Saturday morning run/walk that starts and finishes at HUB, and various other alumni-related functions. The crowning of this year's homecoming queen is scheduled for halftime of the 3 p.m. game.

The game could have added importance since USM and Memphis State are at present the two top teams in the Independence Bowl Association race to provide the home team for the Dec. 23 game in Shreveport, La.

Following the Memphis State game, the Eagles will hit the road for the final two games of the season, at Auburn Nov. 5 and at Louisiana Tech Nov. 12. The Nov. 12 regular season finish will be the earliest in modern history for the Eagles.

Under the direction of first-year head coach Curley Hallman, the Golden Eagles continue to surprise opponents and elate fans. A five game win streak, through the Mississippi State game, matched the longest such streak since 1984.

The 1988 version of the Eagles also was the second highest scoring USM team (through seven games) since 1949.

D. J. Jazzy Jeff headlines JSU Homecoming concert

The Jackson State University Student Government Association (SGA), in conjunction with Creative Touch Inc. and Double T Productions, will present the annual 1988 JSU Homecoming Concert on Friday evening, Oct. 28 as coach Ron Polk's Bulldogs hold their annual Maroon-White intrasquad baseball scrimmage at Dudy Noble field. Game time is set for 7:30 p.m. and admission is free.

Appearing in concert will be D. J. Jazzy Jeff and the Fresh Prince, Guy, Double Trouble and D. J. Razzle K. and Seduction.

Tickets are $8 in advance and $10 the day of the show. Tickets may be purchased from the JSU campus union. For more information, call 968-2571.

Favre displays another stellar performance

Sophomore quarterback Brett Favre turned in his sixth straight outstanding game Saturday when he completed 23 of 30 for 198 yards and three TD's against Southwestern Louisiana.

In that six-game stretch, Favre has completed 97 of 152 passes for 1,384 yards and 12 TD's and has thrown only four interceptions.

His career numbers now show 200 completions (6th on USM's all-time list), 407 attempts (5th), 2,923 yards (5th), and 28 TD passes (1st). His completion percentage for the last six games stands at .638, his percentage for the year is .568 and his career percentage has improved to .491.

Favre now trails only Rick Donegan (3,753), Reggie Collier (3,662), in first downs (163-155) and also in rushing first downs (80-67), and now shows a commanding 258-20 to 221-50 edge in time possession.

USM homecoming court selected

Angela M. Odom of Jackson will reign as the 1988 homecoming queen during festivities at the University of Southern Mississippi Oct. 29.

Odom, 21, was selected during campus elections Oct. 4.

Others selected to serve on the court include Karin D. Lofton of Clinton, student body maid; Sandra Rena Clerk of West Point, graduate maid; Frances Syrie Smith of Gautier, senior maid; Scarlett Denise Vogt of d'Iberville, junior maid; Kristina Jan Baucum of Picayune, sophomore maid; and Yonda Ramona Franklin of Jackson, freshman maid.

USM's 1988 homecoming court will be presented Oct. 29 in pre-game activities beginning at 2:40 p.m. The Golden Eagles' homecoming football game with Memphis State University will begin at 3 p.m.

SPORTS SHORTS

MSU BASEBALL

The Mississippi State Diamond Dogs will be in action Friday evening, Oct. 28 as coach Ron Polk's Bulldogs hold their annual Maroon-White intrasquad baseball scrimmage at Dudy Noble field. Game time is set for 7:30 p.m. and admission is free.

Pending Friday night's weather forecast, the contest may be rescheduled for Sunday afternoon, Oct. 30 at 1:30 p.m. in hopes for warmer and possibly drier weather conditions. University officials will make the final decision by Thursday as to what day the scrimmage will be.

Mississippi State returns 20 letterwinners from last year's 44-20 squad, which capped the season with a third-place finish in the NCAA South Regional.

HANCOCK COUNTY RECREATION ASSOCIATION BASKETBALL LEAGUE

HCRA is taking applications for teams to compete in the Fall Basketball League in Bay St. Louis. Entry fee is $100 per team. All games will be played at the VCJ Center located at 301 Old Spanish Trail.

League play is scheduled to begin Nov. 27. Any persons, groups or organizations interested in entering the league should contact Calvin R. Smith at 467-0470. Deadline for entry is Nov. 18.

FISHIN' TIPS FROM THE HUMMINBIRD PROS

by Larry Colombo

While much fishing activity has given way to deer, duck or upland game hunting at this time, many anglers find this to be fishing's prime time of the year.

This is an excellent time for northern anglers to plan a fishing vacation South. Angling action along the Tennessee River Chain reaches its peak this month. Excellent smallmouth, striped and sauger fishing can be found below any one of a dozen dams along this super fishing system.

Throughout the southern and southeastern U.S. major reservoirs can be at their peak of productivity because the water has cooled down and the fish have become active.

Fish can be found once again in shallow water but generally will not be far from deep water in order to retreat during sudden cold-fronts and weather changes.

Bass will fall prey to a well-placed crankbait at this time, but the retrieve should be slowed down due to the cold water.

Early, winter anglers will find their favorite body of water free of a lot of traffic as most water-sports enthusiasts have retired for the season.

Watch the weather map closely. Fishing is generally best just ahead of a major front. A day or two before a cold front, bass are very productive. Once the front passes, through a period of good fishing, by a warm front, you would more, be in order.

Tip from the Humminbird Pros: A good rule of thumb is to fish with a Humminbird. Good Fishing with a Humminbird. Good Fishing with a Humminbird.

Rocks/Pirates looks like an even match

BY D.C. HARVILL
The Pass Christian Pirates and the Saint Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws will each try to improve their record Friday when they face off in The Pass. The Rocks, with a 2-5 record, have lost their last four games. They dropped last week's game to East Central 14-0.

Saint Stanislaus Head Coach Ken Lyons said, "Our boys have an upbeat attitude this week. Next week we play Bay High another local rival; we want to finish the season winning."

Pass Christian, with a 1-7 record, also is looking to close out the season winning. "We are going to play ball. I know we can play with Saint Stanislaus. We are not going to let them take us. We are basically going to do what we have been doing all season; we are going to pass the ball. We should have the same basic lineup as last week," Pass Head Coach Joseph Brown said.

Brown said his team will have to contain Rocks' running back Gino Ascani.

Kickoff time will be 7:30 p.m. at Pass High Stadium.

SPORTS HALL OF FAME—Eight charter members of Pearl River College's Sports Hall of Fame were recognized Saturday during special homecoming activities. Two legendary coaches, four football and two basketball players were chosen to be the first selected to the newly formed Hall of Fame. The inductees include, from left, Coach Thomas Dobie Holden, represented by his wife, Earlora; Coach Edwin 'Goat' Hale, represented by George Dale, a PRC alumnus and Mis-issippi insurance commissioner; 1926 quarterback Jack Read, Picayune; 1948-49 quarterback Frank Branch of Pascagoula; 1955-57 basketball player J. Larry Ladner of Hattiesburg; 1968-69 football player Willie Heidelberg of Jackson; 1976-78 Lady Wildcat basketball player Toni Byrd of Bay St. Louis; and Forrest Ball, a 1953-54 defensive tackle, who was represented by his parents. Holden, Hale and Ball are deceased.

MUW receives Halbrook Award for athletic/academic achievement

Mississippi University for Women is the winner of the David M. Halbrook Award for Academic Achievement among Athletes for the fourth consecutive year.

Presented Monday at the 55th annual Junior/Senior College Conference at Hinds Community College, the statewide award goes to the university, college and community college having the highest percentage of their athletes graduating in a five-year period.

MUW graduated 85.7 percent of its athletes during the specified time period to take the award in the public-university division. MUW also had the highest percentage of graduating women athletes. Delta State University was the winner for men student athletes with a 66.2 percent graduation rate.

"We are extremely gratified to win the Halbrook Award for the fourth consecutive year," said Dr. Dorothy Burdeshaw, athletic director and head of the Division of Health, Physical Education and Recreation. "I believe that the coaches and faculty members should be very happy with the educational model of sport which we support at MUW."

The Halbrook Award is an outgrowth of House Concurrent Resolution 88 passed by the Mississippi Legislature in 1984. The resolution, sponsored by Rep. Halbrook of Belzoni, encourages all institutions of higher learning in the state to work together in establishing an awards program recognizing schools that maintain and achieve high academic standards and programs which ultimately lead to the graduation of student athletes.

MUW fields four intercollegiate teams: volleyball, tennis, basketball and softball. The university is a member of Division II of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Using jigs to fool fall bass

Ask the top tournament pros to name their favorite bass lures, and they'll probably answer spinnerbaits, but ask them about the lures they use when big money is on the line, and most will answer jigs.

Jigs—those funny-looking little lures with leadheads, spider leg skirts and toothbrush bristle weedguards—have been around in one form or another for decades, but only in recent years have they truly gained favor among bass anglers.

"That's because jigs catch a lot of fish," says Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff member Stanley Mitchell. "Not only that, jigs catch big bass, they catch bass when no other lure will, and they can be fished year-round in all types of water."

The fall and winter months are among the best times to use jigs, says Mitchell, winner of the 1981 Bass Masters Classic. His favorite times to fish the lure are whenever the water temperature dips below 75 degrees.

"I believe a jig imitates a crayfish," he explains, "so I always work a jig around heavy cover where crayfish live, and I work it very slow, the way crayfish often move. I've caught bass with a jig as shallow as one foot and as deep as 20 feet, but primarily I like to fish it between three and about 10 feet."

Water depth is a key in choosing which jig to use, says the well-known Evinrude pro. In shallow water he prefers 1/4 or 3/16-ounce jigs, but for deeper depths below about 10 feet his jigs range from 1/4 to 5/8 ounce. In clear water his favorite skirt color is black and blue while in dingy he uses a brown and orange combination.

"I always add a pork trailer, too," adds Mitchell. "It adds bulk to the lure and makes it more attractive to larger bass, and it also feels more realistic when a bass bites it."

It's important to fish jigs around heavy cover, particularly in and near tree tops, logs, ledges and rocks. Around tree-tops, Mitchell suggests fishermen try to crawl the jig slowly over tree limbs and let it dangle and shake in the water, moving it only four to five inches at a time.

Around rock piles, where the jig is especially effective, Mitchell likes to hop the lure slowly down and around the cover by raising and lowering his rod tip. He suggests working the cover not only from top to bottom, but also from side to side.

"Most hits are soft," he explains, "so it's important to concentrate when you're fishing a jig. I think a bass just eases over and sips in the lure. It's very seldom that you really get a rod-jarring strike."

Because he always fishes jigs in and around thick cover, Mitchell chooses lures that have weedguards. His personal preference is a bristle-type guard that protects the hook against snagging but which doesn't interfere with hook-setting, as some guards do. Mitchell also suggests anglers not be too concerned with all the various jig head designs on the market, but concentrate more on lure weight and color.

Mitchell's favorite jig rod is a six-foot medium-heavy action rod with a pistol grip. Many anglers use longer rods, and the Evinrude pro recommends anglers try several different models until they find one they like. A stiff action is important, however, in order to make a good hook-set.

"A lot of anglers have trouble fishing jigs," says Mitchell, "but I believe the main problem is simply a lack of confidence. The best way to gain confidence is by going fishing for a day and not using any other lure."

"Just remember to fish the lure slowly and keep it in and around heavy cover, and the bass will take care of the rest."

Eagles extend winning streak to six games

"We played a very good football game tonight, and beat a very good football team," is how University of Southern Mississippi head coach Curley Hallman summed up his team's 27-14 Saturday night win over Southwest Louisiana in the Ragin' Cajuns own backyard in Lafayette, La.

With the victory, the Golden Eagles improve to 7-1, and own their first six-game win streak since the 1980 season. The start also is the best since the 1981 team went 8-0-1.

The 27 points scored by the Eagles also pushes the season total to 247, tying the current team at that figure with the 1949 team. That point total is second on USM's career list (through eight games), second to the 253 scored by both the 1951 and 1952 teams.

The victory over Southwest was very similar to recent USM decisions. The Golden Eagles took the opening kickoff and for the third straight week proceeded to drive it to a go-ahead touchdown. Sophomore quarterback Brett Favre connected with sophomore tailback Eddie Ray Jackson with a four-yard pass to cap a seven play, 80-yard drive.

That set the tone for the game as the Eagles went on to post a 13-0 lead at halftime and then matched the Cajuns' two second half scores with a pair of their own.

The Eagles led even more decisively in most statistical categories including a 500-351 edge in total offense. USM also enjoyed almost a 15 minute edge in time of possession (37:06 to 22:54), and ran 49 rushing plays to 28 for the Cajuns.

Junior tailback Ricky Bradley continued to play well as he rushed for 101 yards on 21 carries, seven different receivers caught at least one pass. Eddie Ray Jackson led the receivers with seven catches for 71 yards and one TD, and Favre completed 23 of 30 (.767) for 298 yards and three TD's without throwing an interception.

The completion percentage is his best of the season, the yardage total his second best of '88, and his totals thus far this season show 125 completions in 221 throws (.566) for 1,688 yards and 14 TD's. In his last five games, he has completed 86 of 135 (.637) for 1,236 yards and nine TD's.

With five catches, Meridian junior Alfred Williams continues to lead the receivers with 28 catches good for 478 yards (17.1 average per catch) and three touchdowns.

Senior placekicker Chris Seroka had a perfect night as he hit on field goals of 25 and 35 yards and was three-for-three in PAT's. He continues to lead the team in scoring with 53 points. He now has hit 29 of 31 PAT's and eight of 12 field goals.

USM now has rushed for 15 scores and passed for 14 others, and a defense that improves with each game has allowed the position just three rushing TD's through eight games.

With three tackles, including one for a loss, linebacker George Hill continues to lead the team in tackles with 73 through eight games. Tony Pogue is second at 60.

Current players also continue to move up USM career lists. Back in action after a one-game layoff, tailback Shelton Gandy rushed for 57 yards and in the process moved into fifth place on the attempts list (521). He remains seventh in total yardage (2,407), just 120 behind Bubba Phillips in sixth place.

Favre moved from seventh to sixth in completions (200), seventh to fifth in attempts (407), and from sixth to fifth in net yards (2,978), just 56 short of fourth place.

Next up for the Golden Eagles will be fellow IBA member Memphis State, the Tigers coming off a tough loss to Tennessee.

PRC vies for Southern Division crown Saturday

For Pearl River Community College things couldn't be simpler. If the 5-2-1 Wildcats beat the Copiah-Lincoln Wolves in their homecoming game Saturday they will capture the South Division crown and earn a playoff berth.

If they lose, they finish third in the South Division race and will have to watch the playoffs from the sidelines.

The Wildcats go into their final division game of the season with a 4-0-1 league record.

Co-Lin is still in the race with a 3-1-1 record, and Hinds, who tarnished the Cats' record with a 27-all tie earlier this season, holds a 2-0-2 record.

Hinds will host Gulf Coast Saturday.

Mike Nelson, PRC's head coach, said although his Wildcats handed Gulf Coast a 21-14 loss earlier this season, Co-Lin's 27-10 loss to Gulf Coast Saturday does not take any pressure off the Cats.

"We're concerned about them," Nelson said. "Heck, you're talking about the team that for four or five weeks there was ranked No. 4 in the nation and No. 2 in the nation."

"And they're going to be ready to play," he added, "because this is their homecoming, they're at home, and they know if they get beat they're out of it."

He said he is looking for the Wolves to play one of their better ball games.

He said that while the Wolves can move the ball on the ground, their big-play capability is in the air attack.

"I think we've got to be ready for the big play," he said. "I think we're going to play one of the better offenses we've seen all year."

"They've got two great wide receivers DeJuan Singleton and Edward Thompson and they can get it out there to them in a hurry and they can beat you," Nelson said.

Although they have not shown it in the past few weeks, Nelson said the Wolves also have a strong defensive unit.

"Defensively they have the capability of shutting us down," Nelson said.

Injuries continue to hamper the Wildcats' efforts, as they lost the services of Sondray

Taylor Saturday.

Taylor, a 6-1, 235 nose guard from Picayune, will miss Saturday's game with a neck injury, making him the fourth starter the Wildcats have lost in the last two weeks.

Going into Saturday's game the Wildcats had lost wideout Terry Carter to hand injury, offensive tackle Blaine Miller to knee injury and tight end Olyse Jones to an ankle injury.

Nelson said Anthony Williams of Hattiesburg and Sedrick Washington of Prentiss will fill in for Taylor.

He added while the replacements have done well for injured starters this season, the Cats are not as strong as they might have been without the Nelson said Saturday's 4-4 win over South-west will keep the Cats' hopes alive.

The Wildcats had little trouble with the 0-7 Bears, and were able to play their second string most of the way, saving the starters for the game. The Cats are not as strong as they might have been without the

USM basketball schedules pre-season practice games

A search for replacements for lost starters, long hours of hard work, and six per-season intrasquad practice games lie ahead for University of Southern Mississippi basketball players who opened fall workouts over the weekend.

While Saturday was the first day practice allowed under NCAA rules, coach M. K. Turk delayed his start one day to allow players to attend Saturday's USM-Mississippi State football game in Jackson. The Eagles suited up for the first time the following day and will, according to Turk, put in longer hours than usual during the 1988 pre-season.

"While our players and coaches are extremely eager to get practice under way and to prepare for another season, we also have several questions in regard to players and how they will contribute," said Turk. "We hope to resolve those questions in the first two or three weeks of practice and then devote full time to polishing our game plans."

Prior to the start of the season, the Eagles will take their practice show on the road as they have done in recent years. Pre-season practice games are scheduled for Nov. 1 in Magee, Nov. 3 in McComb, Nov. 7 in Oak Grove, Nov. 8 in Prentiss, Nov. 11 in Jackson, and a final Black and Gold intrasquad game Nov. 15 in Green Coliseum on the USM Campus. A media game, pitting the print media against the electronic media, will precede that final scrimmage. All pre-season games are scheduled for 7 p.m. and the media game will be played at 5 p.m.

"We have found that the general public really enjoys our out-of-town practice games, and we continue to try to visit as many different locations as possible each year," said Turk. "These games also give our players the opportunity to play under near game conditions, and that's especially important to our younger players," he said.

There's also no time to waste. "We have to make quick progress in order to get ready for a very strong early season schedule. And, of course, the Metro will be as strong and balanced as ever. It's going to be a challenge."

The Eagles open the season with a Nov. 11 home exhibition game against the Australian National Team, followed with the first regular season game Nov. 30 at home against Northeast Louisiana, and then play two games in the Gator Bowl Tournament, three more in the Tele Planning International Tournament in Tokyo and a Dec. 28 home game against Marshall to wrap up 1988 action. The first Metro game is a Jan. 4 home game with Memphis State.

The Eagles also are scheduled for at least six televised games as part of the Metro's Raycom package.

While the Eagles lost four outstanding players from last season's squad, including Cleveland Cavalier first round selection Randolph Keys, Turk says don't look for a significant performance drop from USM.

"Obviously we lost players who made monumental contributions to our program, but we feel we will be able to replace them with equally talented players and maintain the high level of play our fans have come to expect."

And if Turk-coached teams of recent years can be taken as an indicator, few if any of USM's opponents will take the Eagles lightly.

Miss. Wildlife Department predicts poor duck season

Considering the serious drought conditions that have persisted in many parts of the country, and the poor year for duck production, this may not be Mississippi's best year ever for duck hunting.

In light of all this, Mississippi's 30-day duck season will get underway Dec. 10 and continue through Jan. 8. The basic daily limit is three ducks and the possession limit is six.

Hunters should know that the daily limit on ducks may include no more than two mallards (no more than one of which may be female), one black duck, two wood ducks, one pintail, and one redhead. The possession limit is twice the daily bag limit.

For shooters who hunt Canada geese on Sardis Reservoir, the season there runs from Dec. 5-14, reopening Jan. 12 and ending Jan. 31. The daily limit is one and the possession limit is two.

In areas around the state other than Sardis, the Canada goose season will extend from Jan. 17 through Jan. 31. Bag and possession limits are the same as at Sardis.

Goose hunters should know that there are a number of areas in Mississippi closed to Canada goose hunting. For more information on this contact your local conservation officer or the game division at the state Department of Wildlife Conservation in Jackson.

Duck hunters will soon discover two other important changes to duck hunting this year. First, shooting hours have changed. The legal hours this year are from sunrise to sunset, unless further restricted on some state or federal areas.

Also, duck hunters will not be using the point system this year. The conventional limit of three ducks in the daily bag will apply to all ducks except the merganser group.

Shooters hunting mergansers will want to remember that the daily bag limit is five, and only one of which may be a hooded merganser. The possession limit is twice the daily bag limit.

Conservation enforcement officials in Jackson are reminding hunters that to hunt ducks in Mississippi they must have their shotguns plugged and incapable of holding more than three shells.

Hunters 16 years of age and over are required to purchase a federal duck stamp. In addition, hunters between 16 and 65 must have a $2 duck stamp. Of course a valid hunting license is required.

Of course this year steel shot will be required for hunting all waterfowl species in all areas of Mississippi. Shooters may not have lead shot in their possession while hunting.

USM Green Coliseum to get new lighting

A $30,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Energy has funded the installation of new exterior and interior lights at the University of Southern Mississippi's Reed Green Coliseum.

Doleac Electric of Hattiesburg is replacing all old fluorescent lighting fixtures, which require high maintenance, with new metal halide sports lights, according to USM Physical Plant energy management engineer Larry Joe Daughtry.

Daughtry said the new lights will provide twice the level of light for one-half the cost, and the new lights also will enhance television broadcasts of basketball games.

The work should be completed by the beginning of basketball season, he said.

Senior Center

Located in the Valena C. Jones Bldg. at 301 Old Spanish Trail in Bay St. Louis, the Center serves Hancock County citizens 60 plus years of age.

Under the Hancock County Human Resource Agency, the Center provides classes in ceramics, macrame, art, quilting, counted cross stitch, silk flowers, Christmas ornaments, framing, wood working and various other crafts. A morning snack is provided with donations from various clubs and businesses.

The Center has a contract to provide 30 home delivered meals a day to those seniors who cannot provide for themselves, and 35 meals for those who have a need for a hot, well-balanced meal daily in the cafeteria at the center.

Transportation is provided through a contract with Coast Area Transportation for most seniors in the county to bring them into the Center, or to take them to the grocery, doctor, etc.

The contract with Methodist Senior Services provides two homemakers for about two hours a week to homebound, needy seniors to do light house-keeping or errands for them.

For more information, call the Center at 467-9292 from 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Jobs

RSVP seniors accepting applications for holiday assistance to the needy

Once again the holidays are upon us. Holiday information and referral will again be assisting service organizations to locate needy families in the county by taking applications from these families for Thanksgiving baskets and also for the toys for Christmas.

RSVP senior volunteers will be coordinating the acceptance of applications starting Nov. 2 from 9 a.m. to noon.

Applications will be accepted on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday until Nov. 17 for Thanksgiving.

For those unable to fill out an application in November there will be another chance for Christmas from Dec. 1 to 15.

Applications should be taken to the Valena C. Jones complex in the office adjacent to the employment office.

Only one member of a household may make an application including only persons actually living in the home at the time of application.

All service organizations and churches are asked to contact the RSVP office at 467-9204 for referrals to avoid duplication and to better serve more people in the county.

A United Way Agency

Catholic Social, Community Services provide counseling, skills training

Catholic Social and Community Services, a United Way-funded agency, serves the people of South Mississippi of all ages, races and creeds and is supported by the Catholic Diocese of Biloxi.

The Hancock County United Way gift helps Catholic Social Services provide unplanned pregnancy counseling by having a place where caring people who will listen and who will help are available every day. A confidential telephone call makes it easy to establish contact. Counseling is provided for the client and her family as they engage in practical and informed decision-making regarding pregnancy, pre-natal care, housing and placement options.

Counseling is always offered to the alleged father and his family. He is made aware of his rights and is encouraged to actively participate in the weekly counseling sessions.

If the decision is made to parent the child, the counselor will provide material items such as clothes, formula and baby equipment, and will offer parenting training and provide ongoing support.

If the option of adoption is chosen, the counselor will offer the family a chance to be active in selecting an adoptive family from non-identifying profiles. The counselor will also prepare the family for dealing with the pain following relinquishment.

The agency recognizes and supports the fact that the final decision rests with the client and, regardless of the decision made, counseling is continued until the client feels she is no longer in need of the agency's services.

The Adoption Program is the natural outgrowth of the unplanned pregnancy program. The Hancock County United Way gift helps Catholic Social Services provide adoption services in the county. This agency is licensed by the state of Mississippi and is the only private agency in South Mississippi to provide adoption services. Caring and professionally trained staff offer the full scope of adoptive services, bringing loving parents and children together. Last year many Hancock County families availed of these services.

Since the strength of our society and the happiness of our people depend in large part upon the health and stability of family life, service to families is of the utmost importance.

In recognition of this fact, Catholic Social and Community Services provides counseling for individuals, couples and families who are struggling with emotional, adjustment or developmental problems. The counseling staff consists of five full-time master level counselors.

Skills-training in group settings is an important part of Catholic Social Services work. Beginning in the fall of 1988, a specially-trained counselor on staff will implement an effective support program for children who live in single-parent families, step-families or families in painful transition. In addition, an eight-week course for parents is offered upon request or by special arrangement.

This program is designed to help parents communicate with their children and instill in them a sense of responsibility.

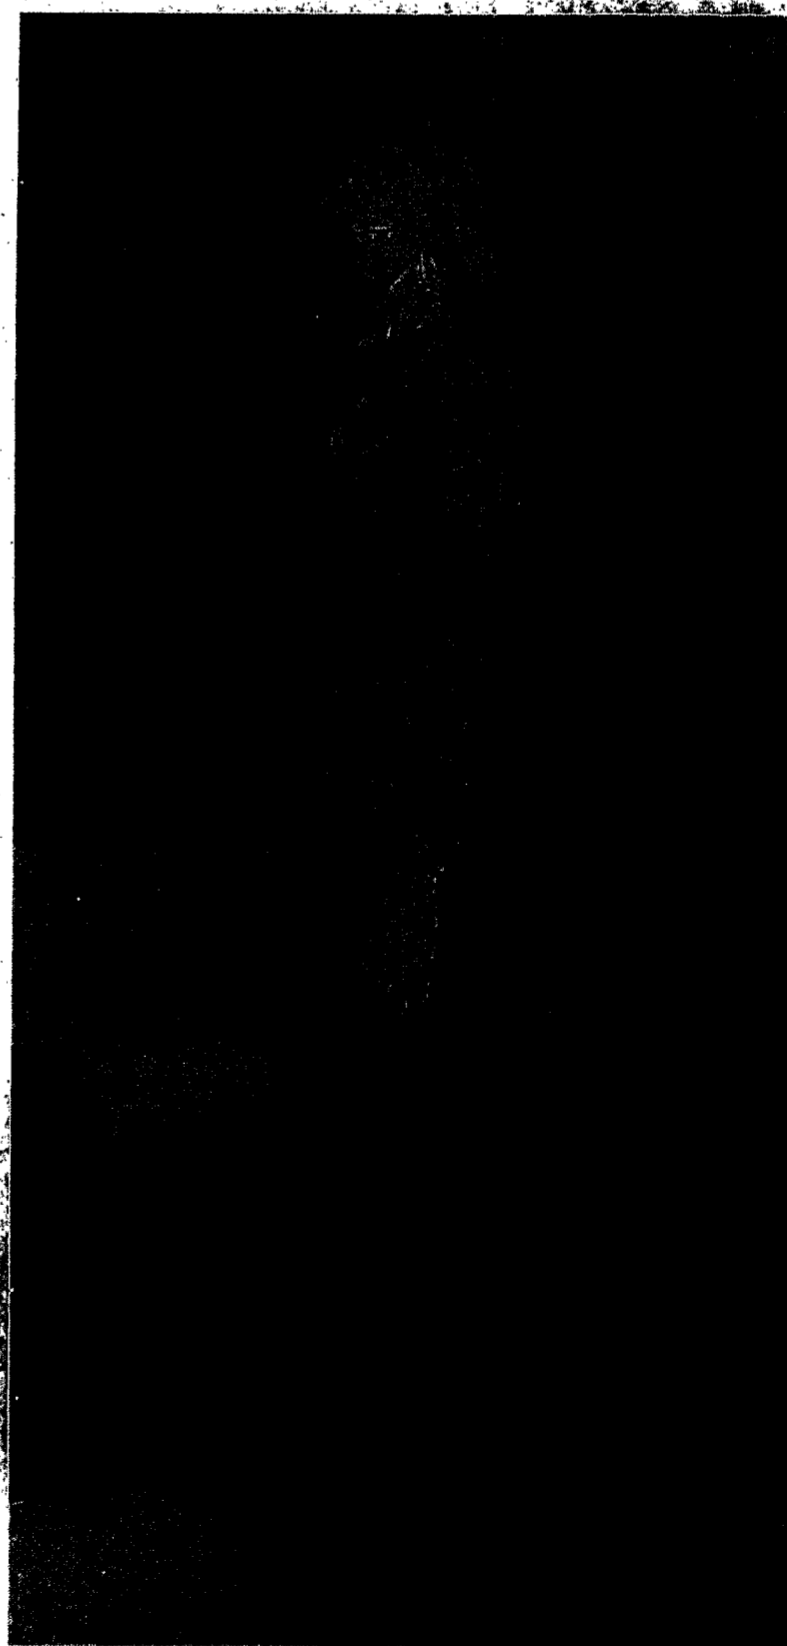

In a spirit of openness to ever-changing needs in the area of human services, Catholic Social and Community Services is continually seeking newer and more effective means of moving families from a position of crisis to a position of strength.

BABYSITTING ADVENTURES—Bay St. Louis Junior Auxiliary member Margaret Adam, left, joins Laura Adam, Matthew Johnson, and Clare Adam in a board game—displaying creative ways of entertaining children. The Junior Auxiliary will host the Super Saturday Babysitting Clinic for Teenagers in cooperation with Hancock Medical Center Saturday, Oct. 29, 11 a.m. - 1 p.m. at the hospital. A brown bag lunch will be served to participants in the free workshop, which will be conducted by safety and health professionals. For information, call chairman Renee Boxx at 467-4432. TOAST TO THE COAST CHEFS—Owners of Robert's Reef Restaurant, Robert and Paula Barnes, review with Chef Johnny Johnson the menu to be served at the Oct. 28 "Toast to the Coast" Coast Episcopal Schools fundraiser. A number of coast restaurants will be represented under the food tent, in addition to live entertainment. (CEHS Photo)

GLAMOROUS GOWN—Dawn Ditt, of the Hancock County Junior Auxiliary, is shown wearing the glamorous gown she wore to the evening gown to be presented at the annual Toast to the Coast fundraiser, Oct. 28 at 7:30 p.m. at 618 E. Seaside Drive in Park. The gown, which she wore to the event, is a heavily embroidered with sequins and inlaid with a shimmering tulle. The gown was donated by Sharon Old of Gulfport. Tickets to the event are available at the door at $35 per person. (Echo staff photo by Janet McQueen)

Heitzmann named Bay Main Branch manager

Jerry Heitzmann has been named Bay Main Branch manager of Hancock Bank.

Heitzmann began his Hancock Bank career in 1984 as a teller. In September 1984 he was transferred to the Bay 90 Branch as a loan maker and in 1987 was promoted to administrative assistant.

JERRY HEITZMANN

Prior to joining the bank, Heitzmann served as Hancock County circuit clerk and before that he was district supervisor for the Mississippi Department of Corrections.

Heitzmann graduated with honors from the University of Southern Mississippi. This year, he also earned a banking diploma from the American Institute of Banking.

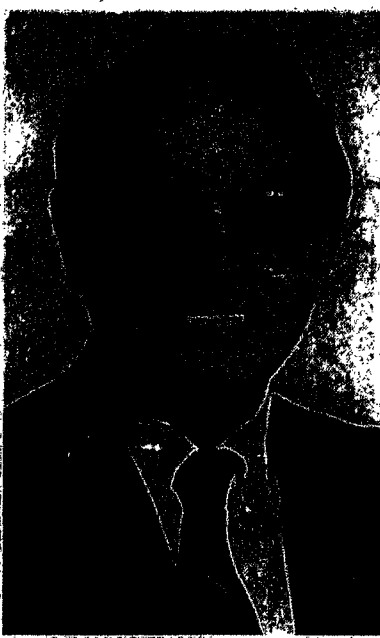

Heitzmann has received the Hancock Banking 'Outstanding Business Development Award' for the years 1984, 1985 and 1987. He is currently serving as treasurer of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, treasurer of the Hancock County Democratic Executive Committee, chairman of the Hancock County Jury Commission and member of the Hancock County Historical Society and Hancock County Exchange Club.

Heitzmann and his wife Deborah have three children. They reside in Bay St. Louis and attend Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

Hancock Bank management has announced for formation of the West Harrison County Region and has named Clinton Necaise, vice president, as the new region manager. The new region includes the Long Beach, Pineville Road, Seabee Base and Pass Christian branches.

Necaise will be located at the Pass Christian Branch, where he will also serve as branch manager. He was previously in charge of Installment Loans.

Necaise is a graduate of the University of Southern Mississippi with a bachelor's degree in banking and finance. In addition,

CLINTON NECAISE

Necaise received degrees from the Mississippi Bankers Association School of Banking and the School of Banking of the South at Louisiana State University.

Necaise serves on the board of directors for the Gulfport Kiwanis Club and is active in The Great Southern Club, USM Alumni Association, USM

Eagle Club, and the Gulfport Yacht Club. He and his wife Linda reside in Gulfport. They are the parents of three children.

Greg Cronin has recently been named assistant loan officer at Hancock Bank. He serves as a loan maker at the Pascagoula Main Branch.

Harrison-Hancock Legal Secretaries

FBI Special Agent John Morley was guest speaker for the Thursday, Oct. 13 meeting of the Harrison-Hancock Counties Legal Secretaries Association. Morley spoke on the four different priority areas for investigation with the bureau, white collar crime, organized crime, foreign counter-intelligence and terrorism. Morley also related some interesting 'war stories' from his years with the bureau.

Governor Chalmers Freeman presented highlights from the MALS Fall Board meeting held in Jackson the weekend of Oct. 1. One of the focal points of the state meeting was membership enrollment; the association has initiated several new solutions designed at increasing membership. The MALS Spring Board meeting will be Jan. 21 at the Sheraton Regency in Jackson. Please make plans now to attend this informative and entertaining function.

Vice-president Glenda Downs is also working toward increased membership for the local chapter. A dutch treat luncheon will be held Oct. 26 from 12-1 p.m. at the Landmark Restaurant in Bay St. Louis. Anyone interested in learning more about the association should attend.

At this time, plans are underway for two mini seminars to be conducted Saturday, Nov. 12. The topics will be stress management and motivation. Time and location will be published at a later date.

The Harrison-Hancock Counties Legal Secretaries Association is a professional, non-profit association dedicated to serving legal secretaries, attorneys, courts and the general public.

The next meeting will be Thursday, Nov. 10 at 6:30 p.m. at the Best Western Inn Beachfront, Hwy. 90, Gulfport. The program will be a spelling bee based on legal terminology given by Frances Favre.

Anyone interested in the association should contact Glenda Downs for information at 452-9408. We encourage anyone working or involved in the legal field to attend a meeting.

Senator John C. Stennis wants to leave his office in hands he trusts.

That's why he's strongly endorsing Mississippi's Wayne Dowdy.

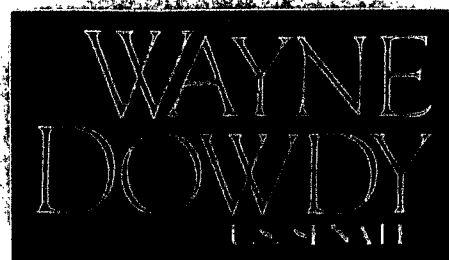

Senator Stennis knows Wayne Dowdy will carry on his 41-year tradition of putting the needs of the people of Mississippi before the interests of any political party.

In a recent speech, Senator Stennis said, "Wayne Dowdy has the talent and the ability—it takes both—to make an outstanding United States Senator."

"Wayne will be eligible for leadership positions as a member of the party that controls the Senate by a majority. That is what really counts. We must have him working in a majority party. We cannot afford the loss of influence we would otherwise suffer."

"I don't make many political endorsements, but my own concern about the future of Mississippi forces me to take a stand on behalf of Wayne Dowdy."

Nobody in Mississippi has a better idea of what it takes to become an outstanding United States Senator than the man who's been there representing us for 41 years—and wants to see that office left in the hands of a man we can trust. Mississippi's Wayne Dowdy.

Timber Ridge Social Club

The Timber Ridge Social Club met at the home of Sarah McCarthy on Monday, Oct. 17 with Deanna Castaneda presiding.

Joanna Barber reported that efforts are being made to find a suitable place for aquarobics since it has become too cool to use the Timber Ridge pool.

Marion Bourette discussed trip to Mistletoe Marketplace on Oct. 27-28.

Social chairman Pat Wilson read the list of the ladies who had served as hostesses since organization of the club and thanked all who had participated.

A new group to study and review books was organized and Mary Streeter agreed to act as chairman with the initial meeting at her home on Monday, Nov. 14.

All members are invited to meet at Sarah McCarthy's on Monday, Nov. 7 and bring any patterns or ideas they have for Christmas decorations.

Heather Thomas reported on plans for New Year's Eve party which will be held at the Pass Christian Isles Golf Club and urged all to make reservations for themselves and guests as soon as possible.

Due to Thanksgiving holidays there will be no November meeting. In lieu of regular December meeting a luncheon will be held at the home of Heather Thomas on Dec. 12.

Bay Senior High students organize SADD chapter

The students of Bay Senior High announced that they have formed a local chapter of Students Against Driving Drunk (SADD).

Founded in Wayland, Mass. by Mr. Robert Anastas in 1981, SADD is dedicated to addressing the problem of drinking and driving among America's young people. In the past four years the program has grown from a single chapter to a national organization which has reached over three million high school and college students nationwide.

SADD educates students about the risks associated with drinking and driving and helps them to become aware of the problem as it exists on the local, state and national levels.

SADD's goals are to:

- * Help eliminate the drunk driver and save lives.
- * Alert and inform students of the dangers of drunk driving.
- * Help students deal with the peer pressure which too often promotes reckless and drunken driving.
- * Organize a peer counseling program to help students who may have concerns about alcohol.

As part of the SADD program, the students of Bay Senior High have pledged to themselves, their parents and their community to become active in the fight to eliminate this major cause of injury and death.

Burns, Wilkerson attend Legion Auxiliary workshop

Evelyn Burns of Waveland and Lou Wilkerson of Bay St. Louis, members of Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139, have attended the National Leadership Workshop in Little Rock, Ark.

Dedicated to service to the veterans and their families, children and charitable work, auxiliary members raised more than $20 million and devoted six million hours to worthwhile causes during the past year.

They were two of several hundred state leadership representatives attending the annual fall leadership training workshops sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary to promote the leadership abilities of its membership and participation in its many and varied programs.

Program emphasis for 1988-1989 includes increased support for the USO, increased donations for the intern program of Radio Free Europe/Radio Liberty, breast cancer education and increased volunteer services for both disabled veterans and community service programs. The auxiliary will continue to promote its many children and youth programs such as Girls State and drug abuse prevention.

The American Legion Auxiliary is a one-million member organization founded in 1920 as a partner to the American Leg-

QUICK HOSPITAL COVERAGE

Time's Short Term Medical plans provide fast low cost "interim" coverage. If you're in between jobs, recently graduated or discharged from service.

You have a choice of coverage periods. And the policy can be issued on the spot. That quick? Of course, there's no coverage for pre-existing conditions. Interested? Call us for full details.

ON ETV

CHILD ABUSE

On the evening of Sept. 26, 1986, a three-year-old Everett, Washington, boy was brutally kicked to death by his father. The nature of his death, as well as abuse had been reported many times to the state's child protective agencies, outraged citizens across Washington state.

"The Unquiet Death of Eli Creekmore," an award-winning documentary airing at 10 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 1 on Mississippi ETV, examines the life and death of Eli Creekmore and the profound impact his case has had on the laws of Washington state and on the agencies charged with protecting children.

Attention Deficit Disorder workshops, lectures held

Seacoast Psychological Associates Inc. announces the availability of a new 'Parent Screening Inventory for Children with Learning Disabilities and Attention Deficit Disorder.'

This procedure is currently under development and a research edition will be administered free of charge to all participants.

Lectures on 'Management Tips for Parents of Children with ADD,' a Parent Behavior Management course and a teacher workshop on Attention Deficit Disorder will be scheduled throughout November and December.

Call 435-2673 for information, dates and times of courses and workshops, by fee, and lectures, free. The free screening inventory will be available at all meetings and by appointment.

HMC offers X-rays of Halloween treats

Ghosts, goblins, skeletons and screams are all part of Halloween fun. Unfortunately, a child's treat could be ruined by one bad trick.

That's why Hancock Medical Center and the American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139 invite all trick-or-treaters to enjoy Halloween at HMC.

On Monday, Oct. 31 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m., Hancock Medical Center will X-ray trick-or-treat candy for metal objects. Kids get to keep their X-ray picture, and refreshments will be served.

"Protect your children from Halloween tricks and bring them by for a special," said Deborah Vick, hospital spokesperson.

For information call HMC at 467-9081, ext. 2200.

Halloween safety tips to insure a fun-filled holiday:

1. Make sure all costumes are flame-resistant and that they do not trail behind when the child is walking.

2. Use only flashlights in outdoor jack-o-lanterns.

3. Make sure the trick-or-treating is supervised by an adult or group of adults.

4. Take your child only to the houses and apartments of people you know.

5. Make certain that children understand that they eat no treats until you have examined them completely for metal objects and tampered wrappers. Perhaps provide your trick-or-treater with a snack that will satisfy his appetite until he gets home.

6. Discard and unwrapped candies, or any goodies in torn packages.

Turn Halloween tricks into treats of kindness

There are several alternatives for Halloween trick-or-treating that can turn this mischievous holiday into a celebration of kindness.

"Halloween is a great time to have a costume party," said Dr. Ann Jarratt, a youth development specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. "Why not charge admission to the party and use the proceeds to benefit a community charity?"

Another alternative is to take costumed party-goers to a nursing home. Instead of asking residents for candy, take them goodies.

The older teens in a community may be interested in sponsoring a haunted house for a local orphanage or younger community children.

"Trick or treating for UNICEF is an excellent way for children to help others their own age," Jarratt said. "Instead of asking for treats, children ask for donations to UNICEF."

UNICEF is an international children's emergency fund. Donations are used to provide medical care and other necessary supplies for children throughout the world.

"Halloween doesn't have to be just a holiday of getting," Jarratt said. "It can be a holiday of giving as well."

CLUBS, AUXILIARIES

Mensa Society

The regular monthly supper meeting of the South Mississippi Mensa Society was held at Barnaby's Seafood Restaurant in Long Beach. New members as well as guests participated in lively discussion on topics varying from exploring the idea of the future effects of computers on our society to questioning if the emphasis in Mississippi is weighted heavily in favor of the learning-disabled as opposed to gifted children programs.

After all presentations of insightful ideas and vigorous discussion, it was unanimously concluded that only one problem had been successfully resolved. The solution to the problem confronting all of us was offered by Chef Fay; and, after our meal, we agreed that he had the answer.

CENTENNIAL SISTERS—Portraying Sisters of St. Joseph Academy in the Waveland Centennial parade recently in Waveland were Beverly Zimmerman, left, and Jackie Kidd of Waveland. The float was dedicated to the nuns who operated the school for many years on the Beach in Bay St. Louis. (Echo staff photo by D.C. Harvill)

GUARD FACTS
Q. What is the difference between the State Guard and the National Guard?
A. The National Guard is a dual-purpose, federally-funded, state-operated military organization responsible for the state's security and tranquility but capable of being mobilized in a national emergency. If the National Guard is mobilized for federal service, the State Guard has responsibility for providing for the state's needs, in cases of natural disasters, civil disturbances and other breaches of the state's security or tranquility.

Schwegmann It's Worth The Trip!
 Schwegmann Slidell is worth the short 20-minute trip from Picayune and points north or from the Bay St. Louis-Waveland-Pass Christian area. It's a true shopping experience with more than three times the variety of items than most stores, and at low Schwegmann prices. Whether you're shopping for a big family or small one, your weekly trip to Schwegmann more than pays for itself in money saved.
 Schwegmann offers fresh, U.S.D.A. Choice meats that are guaranteed to please, plus a full selection of fresh seafood, produce and even imported cheeses. Your one trip to Schwegmann can also handle your other shopping needs, including party supplies, hardware items, housewares, sporting goods, automotive needs and more. Plenty of parking, buses welcome.
Schwegmann, We've Got More In Store For You!
